

WORLD COURT UP IN SENATE AGAIN

REVIVES ISSUE OF AMERICAN ENTRY INTO AGREEMENT

Ranking Democrat Member On Foreign Relations Presents Resolution

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, March 5.—The nomination of Harry S. New of Indiana as postmaster-general was confirmed by the Senate this afternoon. Under the law it was necessary for President Coolidge to reappoint the postmaster-general.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The world court issue was revived in the new Senate this afternoon when Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, sponsored a resolution providing for American adherence.

Swanson called the Senate's attention to the "great delay" in consideration of similar resolutions in the old Congress. "I hope it will be acted on promptly in this session," he added.

A wave of laughter greeted his statement.

Senate Organizes
Facing a number of controversial issues, the new sixty-ninth Senate met today to organize, confirm presidential appointments and perhaps to ratify some of the treaties that failed of ratification by the old Senate because of strong opposition.

The first duty of the new Senate is to elect a president pro tem, who presides in the absence of the vice-president.

After disposing of pending business, the Senate will join the House in recess for the summer.

DEADLOCK DELAYS EXTORTION PROBE

Committee Investigating the Chinese Fraud Charges Fail To Agree

SACRAMENTO, March 5.—Apparently deadlocked over the verdict to be returned, the legislative investigating committee in the Chinese herb bill extortion case announced through its chairman, Sidney Graves, after several hours of deliberation this morning, that a decision would not be reached by noon as expected earlier in the day.

Graves appeared doubtful whether the jury of law-makers would be able to agree on its recommendations to the legislature before late this afternoon or tonight. The committee is deliberating behind locked doors.

Hurley's Statement
Senator Hurley, who was charged by Chinese witnesses with accompanying former Assemblyman Brackett to Dr. Fong Wan's establishment in Oakland when demands are alleged to have been made for money to kill the bill, told the committee that he went merely to recommend Brackett as a lobbyist. Senator Hurley declared he was a warm personal friend of Brackett, adding, however, that "Brackett's reputation is not the best in the world and neither is it the worst."

Dawes Given Rebuke Over Senate Work

WASHINGTON, March 5.—A formal, though mild "hazing" was meted out by the Senate this afternoon to Vice-President Charles G. Dawes for his unceremonious adjournment of the Senate yesterday before new members had finished subscribing to their oath of office.

BULLETIN
DES MOINES, Iowa, March 5.—Suits totaling $70,000 may be filed against the Hotel Fontanelle of Omaha by seven of the moving-picture stars here who were arrested today on the hotel's complaint that they had defrauded it out of $237.

Bryant Washburn, one member of the company, said that Attorney Guy Miller had been questioned regarding the suit. The cause of action would be "false arrest" and the humiliation incident thereto, he said.

DES MOINES, Iowa, March 5.—H. A. Deveau, vice-president and general manager of the Cosmic Production Co., the company for which a number of movie stars and entertainers toured the middle west, was "ousted" from his position here today following the detention by police of several of the company for failure to pay their bill at the Hotel Fontanelle, Omaha.

At a meeting of Harry L. Tighe, president, with the actors, it was decided to "fire" Deveau. Along with Deveau's dismissal came the decision to continue the tour, also minus the services of Roy Kessler, secretary; Deveau's son, Harley, and those of a boy "baggage smasher" hired by Deveau at Dallas, Texas, at $20 a week.

SOLONS SORE FROM DAWES' 'SPANKING'

Vice-President's Actions On Assuming Office Cause Of Hot Criticism

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, March 5.—The smouldering resentment the Senate feels over the "dressing-down" it received at the hands of Vice President Charles G. Dawes came to the surface today a few minutes after it met.

With General Dawes himself in the chair, Senator Ashurst, Democrat of Arizona, succeeded in getting into the record his opinion of General Dawes' action yesterday as "unseemly and untimely."

Ashurst's criticism was directed not at the speech of the vice-president in which he denounced Senate rules, but at the general's action in interrupting the swearing of new senators to "shoo" every one out of the chamber for the Coolidge inaugural ceremonies.

Republican leaders succeeded in shutting off an extended criticism of General Dawes by obtaining a recess until 2 p. m., in order to notify the president that the new Senate is in session and ready for business. However, it may only be delayed as several senators, among them Reed, Democrat of Missouri, endeavored to get the floor during the brief opening session.

When the Senate convened at noon today, Senator Hale, Republican of Maine, and Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, both demanded recognition from the chair. After a moment's hesitation, Vice-President Dawes recognized the Maine senator.

Assumes Blame
Hale said he had "noticed in the press certain criticisms" of the vice-president for not returning to the Senate after the conclusion of the Coolidge ceremonies, in order to preside. Hale said he took the blame for this and wanted to explain to the Senate how it happened.

"After the president concluded his speech," said Hale, "the president and Mrs. Coolidge, and the

Fine Public Spirit Being Displayed by Auto Dealers

The automobile agencies of Glendale and allied business and trades represent the most important of our industries. In addition to giving employment to hundreds of men and women in offices, salesrooms, accessory stores, repair and paint shops, oil stations and so on, the physical aspects of the industry, represented by twenty-three beautiful salesrooms and other fine buildings for carrying on work connected with the automobile, is a distinct addition to Glendale's wealth and the metropolitan appearance of the city.

But of more value than the commercial activity created by the automobile and the wealth represented by real estate, cars and accessories of the men in automobile work and business is the splendid spirit shown by the members of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association in sponsoring Glendale's first automobile show.

Glendale motor car dealers first demonstrated their forward-looking character when they organized for mutual benefit—virtually pledging themselves to work for the good of the industry as a whole. It is this attitude that accounts for the magnitude and importance of the automobile business in Glendale today.

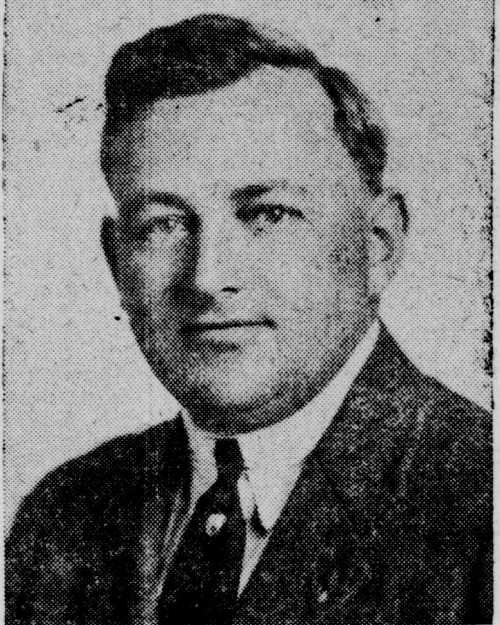

Glendale made Glendale one of the important automobile sales centers of the west. In planning this automobile show the dealers of Glendale are not lacking in prudence or foresight. One who has not breadth of judgment might reason that such an undertaking will entail an expense far beyond any visible and direct return the auto dealers will receive. And this is true. But Glendale automobile dealers have the wisdom that can see into the future, and it is for the future they are building. They do not expect results today from today's advertising.

They know that this show will advertise the auto industry and that it will advertise Glendale more. Eventually Glendale's prosperity and the growth of the automobile business will redound to the individual profit of these men, or their successors, although they may not be able to trace many sales directly to this event. In fact, this show will likely accomplish more in the way of advertising Glendale than it will in advertising the auto sales business or any of the dealers of the association. And because this is true—if for no other reason—the first show of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association should be largely attended.

In another way the automobile show is significant and important. It might be called a gesture of prosperity, for such exhibitions are never held except in prosperous times and prosperous communities. And not only does it denote present prosperity, but it also predicts continuing prosperity, since an event of this kind always stimulates business of all kinds and encourages the spirit of good times.

So we, as a city, should show this organization of business men that we appreciate their public spirit, and thereby encourage them to make this show an annual event. And in encouraging them we indicate to business men in other lines that we approve of progressiveness and are willing to help in any movement that boosts Glendale and stimulates that commercial activity on which the growth of the community so largely depends.

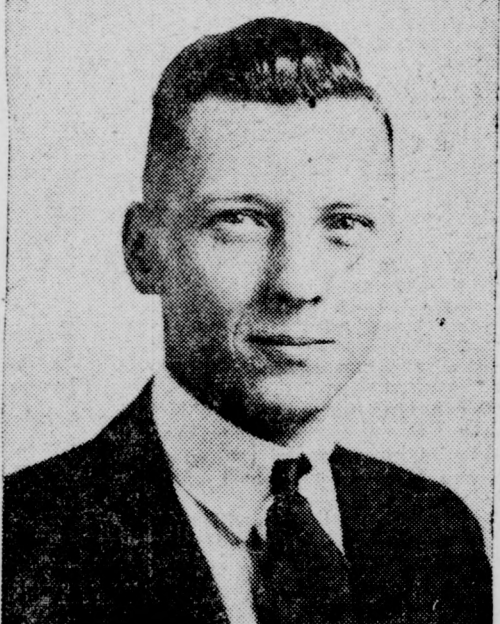

Following are the officers and directors of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association: Lyman P. Clark, president; Donald H. Packer, vice president; M. B. Towman, secretary-treasurer; P. A. Kelley, Tom Smith, William Tanner, R. E. Corrigan and C. H. Hunter.

LYMAN P. CLARK, president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association.

DON C. PACKER, vice-president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association.

MAN ALONE IN BOAT DRIFTS ON OCEAN

Found Asleep In Strange Craft On World Cruise; Declines All Aid

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—The first news to be received at Los Angeles harbor for months concerning Harry Pidgeon, Los Angeles man, who left the local port three and one-half years ago on a trip around the world in a "home-made" yawl, was brought to Los Angeles harbor today by Captain P. SEES FUTURE OF CENTRAL AVENUE

Joseph Zemansky Predicts Values Will Rise When Tunnel Finished

Joseph Zemansky, who, with associates, recently acquired control of the Jefferson Stadium site on Los Feliz road near Central avenue, was active today in working for the success of the big Central avenue opening next Saturday night. His ideas as expressed in this interview are of the keenest interest, as Mr. Zemansky is widely known as a very shrewd investor.

Mr. Zemansky, although already a very large property owner in Hollywood and Los Angeles, is of the opinion that Glendale property is today the best investment that can be made.

"Here," said Mr. Zemansky, "on this corner where we are today we are practically the exact distance from Pershing Square as we would be on the corner of La Brea and Wilshire boulevard, yet property there is held at nearly $3000 a front foot, while frontage in Central avenue, which equals Wilshire in attractiveness and will rival it in traffic, when the tunnel is opened, can still be purchased for less than $500 a front foot.

Many Are Coming
"This property will be within twenty minutes from Pershing Square by street car just as soon as the new tunnel is in operation. And it may be years before it is possible to reach Wilshire boulevard and La Brea by street cars in anywhere near this time. In Los Angeles I often hear of people who are talking of buying homes in Glendale as soon as the tunnel is completed. They can hardly believe that they can be at their homes in Glendale in less time than it now takes the street cars to crawl out of the congested part of Los Angeles in the rush hours, to say nothing about the miles of travel afterward.

"This Glendale property will be the first stop on the tunnel line after Los Angeles. Of course I know the new Los Feliz bridge will be another wonderful help to the new theatres now planned for Los Feliz road, but after all it is the property owners and the newcomers who take up the duties of citizenship in a community that counts. Put me down for Glendale first, last and all the time."

The bond issue would be submitted to a vote of the people in 1926.

A proposed amendment to the bill to raise the loans to former service men for the purchase of homes from $5,000 minimum to $6,000 was put over until a report is submitted by a special subcommittee.

The gas well at Latrobe, Pa., still holds the record of being the deepest, it having been sunk 7428 feet.

RUSSIAN GIRL SACRIFICES ALL LOVE

Immigrant Gives Up Right To Motherhood For Citizenship

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, March 5.—It is a strange spectacle being shown here—the smiling, radiant joy of a little Russian girl from Olean, New York, 20 years old, who has sacrificed, under a surgeon's knife, the hope of motherhood for the privilege of being an American citizen—and has just heard that she has won.

Paula Patton will have few of the joys known to other girls. Love, a home of her own, and children will be denied her. Yet she is not too much to give for the privilege of living in America, away from the horrors of Bolshevik Russia, a return to which she has been fighting eleven long years.

There was a pathetic scene in the New York hotel room where Paula had been awaiting word of Washington's final decision on her case—in order to be near the Ellis Island immigration port if the government still insisted she was an imbecile, and ordered her to go. Paula was so tired and worried with eleven years of waiting that she literally tottered.

Then the secretary of labor arrived. The secretary of labor had decided she might stay. Tears rose to her eyes. Then quickly she laughed and planned a big dinner party, to which the bearer of her good news must come.

Father Wealthy
Paula came to this country in 1914 with her mother, young sister and brother to join her father, Hyman Patton, who had come years before. The other three were passed by immigration officials, but Paula was detained.

Paula had started when war was declared, her ship put back to port and she was temporarily allowed to join her family.

Followed a series of legal battles with the immigration authorities to gain permanent admittance. Handicapped by an impediment in speech induced by paralysis of the vocal chords suffered when a child, Paula tried after set of oral examinations at Ellis Island, and failed consistently. She could not speak the answers although she knew what they were.

Her Olean teachers declared Paula was "mentally alert," but only found speech hard. Psychologists pronounced her "bright."

Her notebooks were shown to President Coolidge. Her friends in Olean found her interesting. And Congressman Daniel A. Reed took up the battle for her.

Through court after court the matter was argued—with always the same result. Paula must go back to Russia where she had no friends or work. She might become a public charge, the decisions always read—although her father is a wealthy man—and she might help the spread of feeble-mindedness in this country. So she must go.

Big Decision
A few months back Paula made her big decision. To leave behind her love of home and parents and the immigration department's decree, she challenged the United States: "They say I'm not bright," she said. "Perhaps I'm not, but I am bright enough to love my parents, my home and my country where I have all my friends. I worked for my country during the war, making bandages and things to help our soldier boys."

"I cannot become a public charge. My father will see to that by buying an annuity to support me if he should lose his wealth."

"And to prove that I will not spread feeble-mindedness, I will have an operation that will prevent my having children who might inherit my mental weakness—if I really have one."

A few months ago Paula lay on the operating table of a big hospital, an eminent surgeon cutting away her chance for a girl's happiness. Then, last May, the immigration bill was passed, authorizing the secretary of labor to grant permanent residence to any youthful alien whom he thought should be allowed to enter if the parent had become a citizen. Paula's case, almost the first exception made.

She has not fully recovered yet from her operation. She is still weak. And she is very tired with the long uncertainty. But Paula has paid the price of American citizenship. It is here now, and she says the cost was not too much.

There are more than 400,000 postal savings depositors, with an average deposit of about $325, in this country.

JOHN BROWN REVIVAL MEETINGS TO CLOSE

Sunday Night Sermon to End Campaign Conducted In Glendale for Past Month by Arkansas Evangelist

EVANGELIST BROWN'S PROGRAM
Tonight, 7:30 o'clock, John Brown will talk on "The Five Deaths." Students of Glendale Union High school are invited to occupy reserved sections at the tabernacle.
Friday morning, 10 o'clock, Mr. Brown will preach his sermon, "In the Cult Kingdom."

After twenty-five days of preaching the gospel of Christ to great throngs that have filled the Union tabernacle from night to night, John Brown, Arkansas evangelist, is about to wind up his month's stay in Glendale. With the approach of next Sunday the evangelist is scheduled to close his campaign of soul-saving in this city.

For more than three weeks this man of God has stood at the tabernacle day and night at a great lighthouse pointing men and women to Christ.

His messages, messages of great power and yet put in simple plain words, backed up by the prayers of thousands, have set in motion a great wave of influence for good that is sweeping over Glendale, reaching every nook and corner and men and women, boys and girls are crowding the inquiry room day after day and night after night finding Christ.

Many Features
John Brown's meetings have been featured by many things.

Preaching in a straightforward manner, driving every truth home with some apt story or illustration, emphasizing his teaching with great Bible truths, John Brown has called Glendale to God. His note of warning to sinners, his appeal for them to come to Christ, his powerful denunciation of sin and evident love of the sinner, have so reached Glendale that all who have heard him know John Brown as a friend to the sinner and a man outspoken against all forms of sin.

And Loren Jones is here, too. This gospel soloist and song leader is a mighty factor in the meetings.

INAUGURAL ADDRESS

It is safe to say that no speech ever given by anyone in the entire history of the world was heard by so many people simultaneously as was the inaugural address of President Coolidge yesterday. And because the people could actually hear the voice of the president as he assumed the duties of his high office, it may be said that there never was such an interest in an inaugural or in what a president had to say.

The address was typical of President Coolidge—not an oratorical effort, but a sane, hopeful, encouraging, inspiring statement of what America represents and what he believes her destiny to be.

Our foreign policy is one of the most important questions before the administration and the president has not changed his ideas in regard to international relations since his election. He stands for an international court of justice and a clarified code of international law. He would not have us interfere in old-world politics, but we must recognize the bond of the brotherhood of man which unites all humanity. He believes we should have sufficient armament for security, and no more. We should not be too much disturbed by the thought either of isolation or of foreign entanglements. We can best serve the people of the old world by continuing our Americanism.

The "irreconcilables" listening in were rebuked by the president when he stated very forcefully, "We are not identified with any old-world interests," and "Our practice is never to oppress, but to assist."

Peace, he believes, can be promoted only by the spiritual nature of man and not by competition in armaments. Several times throughout the address the president stressed the need and the place of religion in our national life. He believes that much can be accomplished for peace by conferences and consultations which help to promote understanding and good-will.

No speech of President Coolidge could be complete without some reference to economy. The hearts of the people beat in response when he said, "I favor the policy of economy, not because I wish to save money, but because I wish to save people." Money saved by the government means more abundant lives for those who toil, and this is idealism in a practical form.

The president demands party harmony, for when the people support a party at the polls they expect and are entitled to that unity of action that will make the party an effective instrument of government. He pleads for respect of law. Under a free government those who wish their rights respected must set an example by observing the law. He asks us to replace sectionalism and prejudice with a true pride of race and demands tolerance and a free mind for America. And he is hopeful that America as a nation is headed in the right direction.

SUMMER TOURISTS

The touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California predicts that more people will come to California this spring and summer by automobile than ever before, the increase being due to the improvements in the great highways across the continent and to better financial conditions in the middle-west.

Seven hundred thousand motorists from other states came into California last year and indications are that the number will be twenty per cent higher this year, judging from inquiries that have come to the touring bureau and from conditions that will make transcontinental travel more comfortable. Many are said to have already started across the continent, although winter still holds forth in eastern states.

The attractions of California in spring and summer are becoming better understood in the east and this would naturally tend to increase summer automobile travel westward.

Many of these quarter of a million tourists are sure to visit Glendale. At least they will drive through the city. It rests with us whether or not they will wish to remain with us or come back to us.

CITRUS MEN HAVE THEIR DAY

That $70,000 is being received daily by the citrus exchanges in the Pomona valley alone and that this daily income will increase until it reaches $100,000 when the peak of the citrus season is reached is good news for all of Southern California. Citrus growing is one of the most important industries of this section and the prosperity of the citrus man, as well as his reverses, affects us all. This money is being paid to the growers as rapidly as possible and of course is stimulating business in the citrus centers and all over the south. The orange-grower had his troubles a few months back, but he is now reaping his rewards. The Pomona Progress says:

"Never was there a brighter outlook for the citrus industry. The market for oranges has been developed largely during the past few months through the efforts of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. This is resulting in more satisfactory prices for the fruit and orange groves are in greater demand. It is reasonable to expect that the growers of this valley will receive from the sale of oranges and lemons not less than $7,500,000 more than was received last year."

BRITAIN WINKS AT LAW VIOLATION

Senator Borah, new head of the foreign relations committee, has remarked that Great Britain is responsible for much of the illicit liquor that is shipped into this country. If he knows this to be true, let us hope that formal and vigorous protest against obstructing the enforcement of law in the United States will be made immediately to the British government.

The bulk of the liquor shipped from England, it is said, is destined for the United States, and that with the full knowledge of the British government. When ships clear from British ports their manifests call for a specific destination. Scores of liquor ships clear monthly for a fictitious destination, never reach it and return home empty. Not only our laws, but the laws of Great Britain also are violated by such operations of a ship flying the British flag, but the British government winks at the process. The United States will spend $9,000,000 to protect itself against the invasion of the British rum fleet and at the same time will lose some measure of respect for a government that connives with law-breakers.

Far-Sight

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The eye is a wonderful organ. Not the least wonderful thing about it is its ability to accommodate itself to the vision before it.

It can glimpse upward and see the stars; it can glimpse downward and see the dust on the ground. It makes this accommodation in a short space of time.

There are some people who have far-sight, but are unable to see things close about them. They see the stars, but fall in the ditch.

Such are sailors, who are accustomed to looking in the distance scanning the horizon and viewing far-off ships.

In the city men are apt to become near-sighted. They read much. They are accustomed to looking at things close about them.

They become sophisticated and quick. The street Arab in the city is usually a lively chap. He has the power of quick accommodation. He knows what is going on around him and can quickly suit himself to circumstances. He is accustomed to dodging cars and otherwise looking out for himself.

The Kansas boy from the country is liable to get run over in the city. He had been looking at distant things along the prairie.

But the Kansas boy usually is more to be trusted than the city street Arab. He has more perspective and can see things better in their proper relation.

Many critics lack background. They have no far vision. They cannot see into the gist of things. They are merely sophisticated and quickly read what is on the surface.

The ancient distinction was between the sophist and the wise man. Sophism consisted in a dexterous handling of apparent truths, but wisdom meant an observation of hidden truths.

The perfect man has perfect accommodation. He can see that which is distant and can see that which is close. His eye adjusts itself.

He has fixed principles, high ideals, and far-off goals, but at the same time he is practical. He sees the road which he must travel as well as the end which he must attain.

He sees the difficulties that lie before him and the obstacles he must overcome, as well as the goal that he must attain.

There are very few men in history that have this rare accommodation of qualities. Some were idealists, having no practical knowledge of the way to attain their ideals; others were opportunists and were deficient in idealism.

It is not only necessary to know what is good for ourselves and the race, but it is necessary to know how to attain it. Otherwise we shall be like the man who looked at the stars, but tripped up before the obstacles at his feet.

People who have ideals only, but no practical wisdom, are called visionary; people who have merely practical wisdom, but no ideals, are called materialists or opportunists. The right man has the proper balance between the two. He knows the end he is to attain and the road by which he is to come to it.

You might call him an ideal opportunist, or an opportunist idealist. At any rate he illustrates the fact that the best man has a balance of qualities and is not extreme in any direction.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

The course of our individual life and the events in it, as far as their true meaning and connection are concerned, is compared to a rough piece of mosaic by Schopenhauer.

"So long as you stand in front of it, you cannot get a right view of the objects presented, nor perceive their significance or beauty. Both come in sight only when you stand a little way off."

"And in the same way you often understand the true connection of important events in your life not while they are going on nor soon after they are past, but only a considerable time afterwards."

Is this so, because we require the magnifying effect of imagination, or because we can get a general view only from a distance, or because the school of experience makes our judgment ripe?

Perhaps all of these together; but it is certain that we often view in the right light the actions of others, and occasionally even our own, only after the lapse of years.

And as it is in one's own life, so it is in history.

After all, happy circumstances in life are like certain groups of trees.

Seen from a distance they look very well; but go up to them and amongst them, and the beauty vanishes; you don't know where it can be; it is only the trees you see.

Hence it is, Schopenhauer opines, that we often envy the lot of others.

Who's Who

The National Press club, in Washington, has a membership of more than five hundred active newspapermen representing all the metropolitan dailies. Henry L. Swinburn has just been installed as president of the club.

He has been engaged in newspaper work there for almost twenty years. For the past six years he has been Washington correspondent of the Havas News Agency, and has specialized in news of a foreign character, particularly as it relates to European and Latin American affairs.

He has served previously with the Washington Times and the Washington Post, and was also with the Washington offices of the Associated Press. He has done considerable magazine work.

Mr. Swinburn is a native of Pennsylvania and attended the Hill school at Pottstown, Pa. He was graduated from Yale in 1907, from which he also received his degree of master of arts, in 1905.

About eight years ago Mr. Swinburn was interested in promoting woman's suffrage, and he made a suggestion to the National Woman's party that carried its appeal throughout the country. When President Wilson was addressing the Congress on a somewhat less important matter, the suffragettes suspended suddenly a banner from the gallery of the House, bearing the words: "Mr. President what will you do for woman's suffrage?" The banner wasn't permitted to remain long, but the incident was sufficiently dramatic to catch the reporters and headlines.

Mr. Swinburn was one of the charter members of the National Press club, when reorganized in 1908, and has served on the board of governors several times. Last year he was vice-president and chairman of the board.

The new governor of Alaska, George Alexander Parks, is the first native of that north country to be nominated chief executive of his territory.

His appointment by President Coolidge to succeed Scott C. Bone, is therefore of unusual interest. President Coolidge, when seeking the man for the post, expressed a desire to name a native, feeling that such a man would not only know present conditions there but have the traditions of the country at heart, as well. Parks went to Washington to deliver a report on some phase of the Alaskan problems and his knowledge of conditions and his bearing impressed the president.

He has been in the Alaskan field service of the general land office of the interior department since 1907, his duties taking him to every part of it in both winter and summer. He began as a government practical miner in Alaska at a salary of $1320 a year and has since worked his way up to the position of assistant supervisor of surveys and public lands.

Says Greatest Rheumatic Medicine In All The World

Hundreds of Bottles Being Sold, Declares Ahlmann Drug Co., Who Guarantee It and Is Dispensing It to Many Sufferers in This Vicinity

"It does not matter to me whether you are disabled with rheumatism or have only occasional twinges," says James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y. "I know that Allenhu, my own discovery, will stop the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and reduce the swollen joints."

"I know it will dissolve the uric acid deposits that have become deeply imbedded in joints and muscles and quickly drive every trace of rheumatism from your body. I know this because I was crippled for years and many times was unable to work, and Allenhu made a well, robust, healthy man of me."

"I know because since I cured myself, hundreds have taken Allenhu and speedily rid themselves of this agonizing disease."

Allenhu is no lazzard; it starts right in at once; it gets into the blood, searches out the poisonous uric acid deposit and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that cause rheumatism, out of the body through the natural channels.

"The blessed relief this marvelous prescription quickly gives me made for thousands of friends," says Ahlmann Drug Co., who has been appointed agent in your city. It is Mr. Allen's own discovery. If you live out of town ask him to send you full particulars.

JUNIOR DANCE ON FRIDAY PLANNED

Coming Event To Be Biggest Ever Staged By Third Year Class, Report

With all of the committees working hard and the tickets going fast, this year's junior dance which is to be held in the girls' gymnasium at Harvard High school, Friday night at 8:15 o'clock, promises to be the best ever given by the third year class at Glendale High. Only 125 couples will be admitted and Fred Falks, president of the junior class, reports that already nearly 100 tickets have been sold.

The decoration committee, headed by Elizabeth Danforth and Harriet Jeter, is planning a very effective decoration. The whole affair is to be done with an undersea motif. Huge, gaily painted fishes are to be hung from the ceilings, which in turn are to be draped with a seaweed effect. The walls and pillars are to be done with an undersea effect, and fused green light will add to the charm of the decorations. Even in the programs the effect is being carried out with a painted sea-horse on each program.

Fish in Punch
Ted Dorrance and Coach Eugene Wolfe of the floor committee are having the floor polished and report that it will be in regular ballroom condition by Friday night. Daisy Whitsell at the head of the refreshment committee is planning a novelty in the way of serving the punch. The two serving girls are to be dressed as mermaids and swimming in the punch will be real fish—of celluloid.

Bob Ayars and Glenn Cunningham will have charge of the check-room. The publicity committee composed of Walton Andrews, Ross Russell and Richard Bichenback has been busy lately working to make the dance a success.

As only a few tickets are left, and as a last minute rush of tickets is predicted, many tickets will probably be left without means of admittance. Absolutely no more than the allotted number of 125 couples are to be admitted. Among the patrons and patronesses are: Mr. and Mrs. Francis Henry, Mrs. R. S. Todd, Mrs. L. C. Danforth, and Mrs. Howard Walker.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, March 5.—San Fernando boulevard is to be uniformly paved from the east city limits to the Grismer avenue district, and the local engineering department will place plans for the proceedings before the next meeting of the city trustees. These plans will match up with plans now under preparation to pave the entire portion of the boulevard passing through Glendale, it is learned, while other cities and communities through which San Fernando road passes on its way from Los Angeles to Saugus are to be paved as well, restoring to this famous artery its old Spanish name, "El Camino Real," the king's highway.

This improvement will consist of the paving of the unpaved sections of the boulevard from Verdugo avenue to the eastern city limits and from Palm avenue to the Grismer avenue district, and a two-inch coating of black paving material on top of both the old and new paving from the eastern city limits to the aforesaid Grismer avenue section.

From Verdugo avenue east, the present pavement is only about 24 feet wide through the center of the street. This leaves a considerable space of unpaved street on either side between the pavement and the curbing. It is this unpaved section that is to be paved with concrete, and then a 2-inch thickness of the black paving will be put on top of both the new pavement and the present pavement in the center, making a uniform surface from curb to curb.

Mrs. Calvin Davidson of Galesburg, Ill., arrived here recently to join her husband, who has been in Burbank since the first of the year. Mr. Davidson is employed in a local garage. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson are making their home at 413 Magnolia avenue, but are so well pleased with California that they intend to build here shortly.

Mrs. E. G. Hogan of 601 Tunjunga avenue is visiting in Los Angeles with her mother, Mrs. J. D. Hefton, and sisters.

LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, March 5.—Verdugo Hills lodge No. 274, I. O. O. F., will hold a special meeting on Wednesday, March 13, when Charles Wilde, district deputy, will be present to discuss the formation of a Rebekah lodge in La Crescenta valley. Any unmarried woman over 18 is eligible and all married women who have male relatives who are I. O. O. F. members may join.

The meeting will be held in the Fowler hall. Refreshments will be served and entertainment is planned. About fifty persons have signified their intention of joining the new organization.

A large attendance is expected this evening at the meeting of the Improvement association, which will be held in the La Crescenta schoolhouse. Important matters to property owners of the valley will be discussed.

The local branch of the Angeles Forest Protection association is making elaborate plans for the St. Patrick's dance to be held March 17 in the La Crescenta school auditorium. Proceeds of the affair will be used to buy fire-fighting equipment.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Differences in men and methods they employ are to be seen in the capitol in Sacramento. The state Senate was stampeded into the passage of a "gag rule" for lobbyists which already is admitted as ineffectual insofar as the flow of the paid hirelings around the halls of the Legislature is concerned. On the other hand, the assemblymen, who are credited by some with being novices, went to work to clear up a scandal which involves one of their members and one senator. Their committee functioned rapidly and it is doubtful if a "cinch" bill, as those upon which graft may be collected are called, will get very far if its author cannot show good faith.

The state of California is a costly instrument of government. Its biennial budget about to be passed by the Assembly of the Legislature calls for $104,000,000 and more, while the actual expenditures will be close to $152,000,000—an increase of about $25,000,000 in the budget bill. Of course, there are good reasons for this. The governor, Mr. Cullen, nor Richardson cut everything to the core and now is allowing for capital expenditures which got the ax. Also fixed charges naturally increase. The schools, too, are faring better, as are the institutions. It is going to cost $163,000 simply to add a woman's ward to San Quentin prison. Money could not be better spent.

Strange are the contents of many bills before the Legislature. Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena complained to the Senate recently that the lawyers handed him measures full of "bugs," as constitutional errors, jokers and extraneous regulations are generally termed. But the Pasadena solon is not the only one to suffer. Assemblyman Frank Weller of Glendale, who is a lawyer, was asked to sponsor, with others, the Metropolitan Water district bill. He did, because he imagined it had been carefully prepared. Every one endorsed the idea, but not until Mr. Weller and others had time to see what was in the bill, a lot of which shouldn't be, did he discover at least a half dozen glaring reasons why it should not even pass out of the committee in its present form. Assemblyman Weller is right on the job and they can't put anything over on him.

Unfavorable newspaper publicity is the principal topic of the California legislature. But it has enough members who are printers and editors to show the Fourth Estate how to run a country weekly, itself, one comment.

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, March 5.—Notice of assessments for construction of the outfall sewer from York boulevard and Glassell avenue 45 and Ellenvood drive are being mailed to property owners in this district. The date of hearing protests is March 16. It is anticipated that there will be few if any protests, as this will be the connecting link between the Eagle Rock sewer and the main outfall which is now installed to York boulevard and Glassell, and since everyone in Eagle Rock will be benefitted by the outfall, it is argued, every piece of property will be taxed nominally for the cost of the installation.

The Arden players of Occidental college are now rehearsing daily for the annual college play, which this year will be "Enter Madame." The play will be given at the Eagle Rock school auditorium, the nights of March 12 and 13. Those who saw "Romance" will have some idea of the character of Madame Della Robbia, the leading role in the play.

The open forum meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Eagle Rock school auditorium Tuesday night, March 10, at 8 o'clock, when various community problems will be discussed. A treat is promised those who attend, as the film "The Giant of the Hills," a story of the development of light and power will be shown.

The new Eagle Rock bowl is a busy spot these days. The graving is being pushed with many teams and much dynamite; tons of cement are being used in construction. It will mean more to Eagle Rock than can be counted in dollars, its sponsors feel. The bowl has been enlarged and will be a much more pretentious one than was first designed.

WAR MOTHERS GET FILM STARS' HELP

Benefit Tomorrow Night To Bring Together Many Of Screen's Best

A galaxy of motion picture stars and entertainers from the dramatic and concert stage are in readiness to entertain the big audience that is expected to attend the American War Mothers' Benefit show, given by the local chapter at the Broadway High school auditorium tomorrow night. The performance will commence at 8:15, and shortly after that the following stars will be presented: Tom Mix, Louise Dresser, Madge Bellamy, Lew Cody, William Desmond, Laura La Plante, Mary McEvoy, Albert J. Smith, Charles H. Puffy and Rin-Tin-Tin, the wonder dog of the screen.

For weeks the War Mothers have worked to obtain the presence of these motion picture stars and they invited only those who could readily entertain on the stage as well as the screen. William Desmond will head the stars' part of the entertainment, giving a sketch which he performed years ago on the legitimate stage. "The Timber Wolf." The scene for this one-act play is laid in the Northwest, the scene of many of Desmond's picture plays. Special scenery will be brought here from the Universal studios, and Mary McEvoy and Albert J. Smith, who are also Universal picture artists, will assist Desmond in the play.

Tom Mix will lead off with stories of early picture experience, and Louise Dresser will also "tell stories," while Lew Cody, Madge Bellamy and Laura La Plante will have something different to offer. Rin-Tin-Tin, the dog star, will be introduced by his owner and trainer, L. L. Duncan. He will give the history of the remarkable dog and will later have him perform many of the stunts that have made him famous as a canine star.

Ring Stars Aid
Jess Willard and James J. Jeffries, two former kings of the boxing ring are going to take tickets and will later be introduced from the stage. They are both intensely interested in helping the War Mothers and were willing to take any part assigned to them. The Elks' band will open the performance after the overture by the Glendale Union High school orchestra. The band will be massed on the stage and many surprises are in store for those who are looking forward to this part of the program. Other acts will follow without delay and the large list of entertainers will keep things lively every minute.

Viola Yorba will sing Spanish numbers, Pearl Keller will send her best dancers, Keamoku Louis, Hawaiian singer, will be there, Chief Walking Deer and a tribe of Hopi Indian singers and dancers are coming from the Mission Play, the Emerson School of Expression will be well represented, Grande and Cook, former Keith vaudeville headliners, are on the bill and many others of local and national fame.

WORLD FLYER TO PRESENT AIR PRIZES

Lieut. Smith, Col. Lahm And Other Notables To Be
Rodeo Guests

BULLETIN
Brigadier-General William Mitchell, storm-center of the army-navy-air service controversy in Washington, has been invited to attend and participate in the mammoth air meet to be staged in Glendale March 14 and 15. Dr. T. C. Young, head of the committee in charge of the meet, and the Chamber of Commerce today sent a telegraphic message to General Mitchell, asking him to come to Glendale for the meet and to participate in the events as well as help form the aeronautical association here.

Three important announcements in connection with Glendale's air rodeo and commercial aviation meet were made today by Dr. T. C. Young, chairman of the general committee.

1—Lowell Smith, commander of the world flight, will be present at the formation of the Southern California Aeronautical association here and will officially present the silver trophy to the winner of the gliding contest, the main competitive feature of the meet.

2—Col. Frank Lahm, chief of all army aeronautical activities in the Ninth Corps area, including the western states and Hawaii, has been invited to attend the meet and will in all probability accept. Col. Lahm is a pioneer of aviation, the son of the vice-president of the International Aeronautical association and grand-son of one of the world's first flyers. He has been prominently mentioned as successor to General William Mitchell as chief of the United States air forces.

3—Officers of the army, now in the process of forming a branch of the National Aeronautical association in Southern California will join in an effort to give birth to one great association embracing all interests in the state.

Dr. Young also announced that Professor A. A. Merrill, head of the aeronautic research department of the California Institute of Technology, one of the leading glider experimenters in the United States, will bring his glider "Tall" to the Glendale airport for the two days and will give numerous demonstrations of his recent accomplishments with a motorless airplane that have won for him international fame.

Smith Consents
Dr. Young secured the consent of Capt. Smith to present the Chamber of Commerce-City Council trophy to the winner of the main contest this morning. Col. Lahm was extended an invitation to the meet through Lieut. C. P. Kane, commander of Ross Field, Arcadia, who also has signified his intention of assisting in the formation of the Southern California aeronautical association. Lieut. Kane is chairman of the state committee on aeronautical regulations and legislation.

Officers and reserve officers of the United States army met at the Ambassador hotel in Los Angeles yesterday and voted to coordinate their efforts to organize a Southern California association with those of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce and appointed a committee to solicit invitations to the Glendale meet for members of their respective organizations. Col. Lahm, Lieut. Kane and Arnold Kruckman are moving spirits behind this tentative organization.

Young to Speak
Dr. Young will address a large gathering of army officers at Ross Field Saturday night, at which time he will seek their full cooperation in staging the meet and launching the association.

At meetings held yesterday afternoon and last night it was decided to hold the big aerial banquet at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse. This event will take vice-president and Mrs. Dawes left the stand and started down toward the cars. The vice-president said to me "I must return to the Senate to preside; how do I get there?" I informed him that he was not to return to the Senate, but was to go to the White House to review the parade. It was a misunderstanding on my part. If there is any blame attached to it, it is mine."

Senators Peeved Over New Leader's Actions

Makes Protest

Senator Ashurst then obtained the floor.
"Mr. President," he said, biting his words off, "I saw in the press this morning certain criticisms attributed to me of the vice-president. I rise to a point of personal privilege to say that there are certain parts of the vice-president's speech with which I am in accord. My criticism was directed at the unseemly and untimely interruption by the vice-president of the ceremonies of the new senators taking the oath of office."

General Dawes stood erect behind his chair and said nothing. Senator Curtis, the Republican leader, then obtained a recess and the appointment of a committee consisting of himself and Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, to inform the president that the new Senate had organized and is ready for business. A recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, and Robinson of Arkansas, the majority and minority leaders, called at the White House at 1 o'clock to advise President Coolidge that the Senate had assembled and was ready for business.

Looks Like Action

The unprecedented, tradition-shattering action of the new vice-president in figuratively spanking the Senate within two minutes after he had taken the oath of office, caused a wave of resentment in that august body that extended to every part of the chamber. Not only the Democrats and insurgents are "sore" but administration senators as well. Whatever be the ultimate result of Dawes' beginning, his friends gleefully observed today that at least the volatile general has shown that he does not intend to be submerged in the usual obscurity that falls to the lot of vice-presidents.

With flailing arms and stamping feet, General Dawes told the Senate its present rules are a disgrace and "subversive of good government."

German President Laid To Rest in Heidelberg

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Mar. 5.—Frederich Ebert, first president of a republic that rose on the ruins of empire, was laid to rest today in the old University town here, where he spent his boyhood days. The chancellor caught her as she fainted, then assisted her to her carriage.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Beef live and dressed cattle markets show gratifying improvement during the past few days, according to a report from Chicago. Beef outlet channels were promptly relieved of congestion by a moderate decrease in cattle supply last week, enabling the market to absorb a normal early run this week at further appreciation.

Gross earnings of Southern California Edison Co., increased 9 per cent, while net income increased 23 per cent and balance available for dividends and depreciation increased 43 per cent. This year the rainfall and snow in the high Sierras is already in excess of average conditions at this time of the year, which points to a very prosperous year for this electric utility.

Los Angeles bond dealers complain of continued shortage in first grade investment liens. No new municipals are forecast for the immediate future. Buyers are bidding against one another for high grade supplies on the market.

The volume of business throughout the United States is large despite an absence of forward buying, according to reports over the E. F. Hutton & Co. wires. Crude petroleum production in the United States during the week ended February 28 is reported to have averaged 1,933,178 barrels a day, an increase of more than 100,000 barrels over the preceding week's daily average. California production during the same period was 602,000 barrels daily, an increase of 200 barrels, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

An advance in the price of Canadian gasoline is expected, as it is selling 3 to 4 cents cheaper than in the United States.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. H. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, March 5.—Neither the speculative nor the commodities markets made much headway today against the reactionary conditions which forced the heavy declines in prices at the close of Wednesday's session. Traders appeared anxious to take profits in the stock market in all of the morning session and well into the fourth hour, and professionals threw large blocks of stock on the market in the effort to force recessions in prices of strategic stocks.

Concentration of selling orders on the high-priced industrial stocks recorded good gains at the opening. The same tendencies were seen in the grain and cotton markets. Wheat failed to recover any large part of the heavy losses sustained in the late trading yesterday. Offerings were heavy in Chicago and Winnipeg and cotton selling was also more aggressive than the buying. Call money opened at 3 1/4 per cent, but funds were in abundance and the rate was marked down to 3 1/2 per cent. Two important companies were added to the list of corporations making special distributions to stockholders.

The underlying strength of the market was seen in the slowing up of activity while selling pressure was at its height. It is doubtful if any considerable volume of long stocks were dislodged from accounts. Short covering in other sections of the market caused sharp advances in stocks like General Electric and American Can, the strength of the former being due to the discontinuance of Congressional agitation for an investigation into the affairs of the company and uncertainty with respect to the disposition of Muscle Shoals.

Baltimore and Ohio and Frisco common led a spurt in the railroad stocks in the fourth hour. Special stocks for the first time this week seemed ready to respond to some favorable developments in the affairs of the company, in a situation which is of major interest in railroad affairs.

After declining to 20 the preferred stock advanced to 22 1/2 and the common from 11 1/4 to 12 1/4. The oil stocks lost most of their market buoyancy, though California Petroleum and General Petroleum were strong and steady throughout the session and Pan-American was aggressive. Market reports link these three companies in an important merger. Shell-Union, Cosden and other prominent oils were reactionary.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By CORNELIA KANE RATHBONE

They went down the long hall, through a leather-covered, swinging door at the end and down another narrower corridor, from which a steep stair led to the floor below. As they passed it voices came up faintly from below.

"The girls come back, I'm thinking," volunteered Denis. "Shall I be sending Mrs. Hurst's mail up to her, sir?"

"Show me to Mrs. Hurst's room first," commanded Graham. The old man threw open a door at the end of the corridor, turned on the light and made way for Graham to enter with his burden.

"This was Mrs. Hurst's time," he said. "Not grand enough, to my thinking, for a lady high-placed like the master's wife. But she says she likes the quiet of them, cut off from the rest of the house by the swing door, as you see. And with the back stairs handy for slipping up and down," he added, in a tone charged with meaning. "Go and call the maid," ordered Graham sharply, ignoring the old man's insinuation.

As Denis withdrew muttering sullenly, Graham laid the fainting girl on a couch near the door. As he straightened himself, he glanced around the room. Its furnishings were charming in color and line, but quite simple. There were no photographs of family or friends scattered about, none of the pretty, useless trifles a woman is apt to gather about her in the course of years. It seemed to Graham like the room of a woman without a past. As he looked at her lying there, the delicate modeling of her face seemingly done in marble against the soft, lustreless cloud of her hair, the firmly held lips relaxed and drooping tragically, a new emotion stirred within him such as he had never felt before for any woman. Her loneliness called to him, her peril, her loneliness, a stranger, she had said, among people who were not friendly to her. Again he vowed himself to her service, shutting his mind to doubts, to questionings.

A sound from a room adjoining aroused him. He listened, but it was not repeated. Still he was certain he had heard something, and in this house of tonight, any sound in a presumably empty room he felt must be investigated. As the light from the outer room penetrated but dimly through the open door, he reached for the switchbutton and turned on the electricity before entering. The room was fitted up as a studio, but with little of the artistic litter which the word sometimes denotes. A few canvases were piled, face inward, against the wall, and on an easel stood a clever, half-finished sketch of a man's head. There was no place of concealment visible. Then the sound came a second time—the white shade at the open window had flapped in the wind.

"Bah, my nerves are all on edge tonight," he thought disgustedly. As he turned back to the outer room, uncertain what to do, wishing the maid would come, his eye fell carelessly on the dressing table which stood between the windows. Before his mind had grasped what he saw, his heart had jumped a beat. Among the various articles of silver and ivory lay a lovely bit of quaint, old-fashioned jewelry. Philippa's bracelet! There was no mistaking it! His impulse was to rush across and seize it, but the sound of hurrying feet arrested him. Before he could call the maid was in the room.

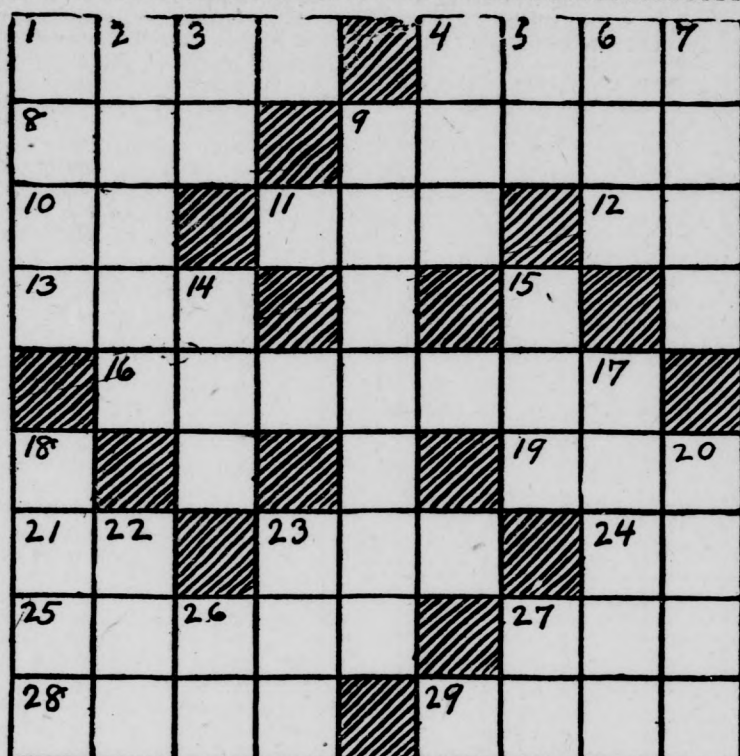

"Philippa's bracelet!" He closed the door softly behind him, stunned and incredulous. All the banished doubts were thronging back. E. H. must stand for Evadne Hurst after all, not for Estelle. The appointment made in the note had obviously been kept, but how? When? Evidently not at the hour fixed, for he had reached the house himself only a few minutes after 9. The man must have left the restaurant too soon and reached the house too early. Had Mr. Hurst surprised the two together—had there been an angry scene? Graham's quick brain was piecing together a patch-work of hideous possibilities. He sought distractedly for some explanation which would exonerate Evadne. He remembered the open window. Could the man have entered by that way and dropped the bracelet in the room without the girl's knowledge? He caught eagerly at the possibility. Why had he not made sure whether or not the window could be entered? The service staircase, as he passed it, brought another thought. "Handy for slipping up and down," Denis had said. Could the man have come that way? And still without her knowledge? But if that were so, must he not have been used to slipping up and down? Graham ruled out the staircase.

He was suddenly conscious that his hands were clenched till they ached; that his heart was racing. Startled, he questioned himself. What was it all to him how the man came? What did it matter to him who had killed Hannibal Hurst? Why should he care what she was, this girl whom he had known scarcely more than an hour?

That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its number. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain uninterrupted.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MAPLE SUGAR

One afternoon, when Uncle Wiggily was bringing Nurse Jane home from the moving pictures, where they had gone to see the tale of how the cabbage lost its head, the rabbit gentleman suddenly stopped as he hopped under a tree and looked up.

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane, also stopping. "Do you see one of the had chaps up in the tree, Uncle Wiggily?"

"No," answered the bunny, and then he held out one paw, as he often did when he wanted to make sure whether or not it was raining.

"It isn't storming," said Nurse Jane, also holding out her paw. But as she did so she felt something wet drop on it from a tree branch above her and she cried, "Why, it is raining; but how does that happen when the sun is shining?"

"What you felt wasn't rain," said Uncle Wiggily. "It is sap dripping from the maple trees. When spring is almost here the sap, or juice, in the trees begins to run up from the roots, where it has been staying all winter so it wouldn't freeze."

"The wind must have broken off a branch and from the broken end the sap is dripping, like rain."

Nurse Jane happened to put her paw to her lips and she cried: "Why, this sap is sweet—like sugar."

"That sap is from a maple tree," said the bunny. "It is sweet, and if I can get enough of it and boil it in a kettle over a fire I shall have maple sugar."

"Oh, please do it," begged Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy.

So Uncle Wiggily said he would. The first thing was to make some holes in the sugar maple trees near the hollow stump bunny.

"I'll try some of it by pouring it on the snow," said Uncle Wiggily to Sammie and Susie Little-tail, who were watching him. "The snow will cool the syrup and make it into a kind of sticky candy, called maple wax. I'll give you some, but don't take it off the snow until it cools, or you'll burn your tongues."

The bunny gentleman poured some of the brown, hot, sweet syrup out on the cold, white snow. The maple wax looked like brown pancakes. And just then, when the cakes were still very hot and sticky, along came the bad Bushy Bear.

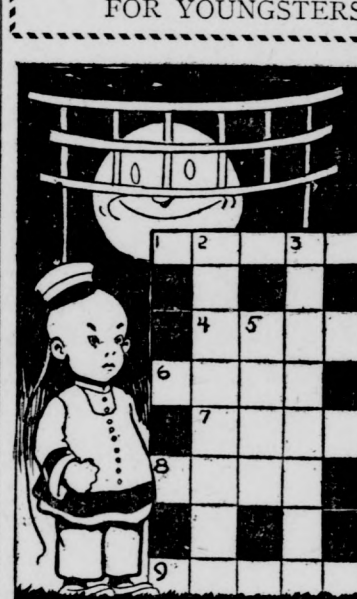

"Oh, how I love pancakes!" growled the Bear, thinking this was the buckwheat kind his wife sometimes baked. "I'll eat these pancakes and then nibble Uncle Wiggily. Before anyone could stop him, the Bear pawed up one of the hot maple cakes and popped it into his mouth."

It burned his tongue and the Bear danced around in the snow, trying to paw the hot stuff out of his mouth, but he couldn't, because the maple wax stuck to his teeth. And he rolled over and over in the snow before he ran away.

Sammie and Susie waited until the wax cooled before they ate it and they liked it very much. Then a little later Uncle Wiggily made a lot of maple sugar, and he may have some left yet, if he and Nurse Jane haven't eaten it all up.

So this is all now. But if the snow doesn't get all spotted black from trying to pull the cork out of the ink bottle in its teeth, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the stretcher.

FRENCH STYLE PASSED ON BY U. S.

Paris Sets 'Em, America Says Whether They're Wearable or Not

NEW YORK, March 5.—Let's concede the French the short putt. Let's admit the French couture sets the fashions in women's dress. Then we'll win hole and match on the unquestioned fact that the temperamental French artists set those fashions at the dictates of the American women. Paris originates styles, but it is New York and the remainder of the country accept of those styles that registers and, what is more important, sells. And New York is mentioned simply because this city has first chance to pass judgment.

Therefore, French styles this spring are American. And perhaps the French designers are not gnashing their teeth over it. Recent arrivals from the Rue de La Paix report that, while an armistice has been signed, the contestants of the two schools are still wrangling as to "who won the war" of the knee and the bustle. The final answer is that the American knee won the war.

It was not until a famous designer, recognizing on which side of the Atlantic his bread was buttered, imported a half-dozen American mannequins, that the battle of the knees was joined—and spread. The French knee has temperance, but little else. It is of the sinuous, one might say, scrawny, Bernhardt type.

Legs Compared

On the other hand, or, rather, the other leg, the American knee has shapeliness. So has the American calf and the American ankle. Even a trench-worn member of the A. E. F. is willing to admit that the French ankle has nothing to write home about, although perfectly adequate as something on which to hang a foot.

Then, too, there was the difference in carriage between the French and American types. The Parisienne affects a sinuous, intriguing grace, while the American steps right out, with head up and, perhaps, a little boyish swagger. It has become obvious here that American women do not like Parisian frocks designed in the French manner. Therefore, the French frocks this spring will attempt to convey "self-assurance, even audacity, with chic," as one designer expresses it. They will make the most of the American knee and not much of the American bustle. The French woman undoubtedly likes to bustle a bit. The American woman is not crazy about it. Result—lack of bustle.

Poirot Disagrees

One of the old guard who dies daily, but never surrenders, is Poirot. He, according to his recent customers, holds out for skirts at least four inches below the knee. "Styles are not likely to have a radical change for some time to come," he is quoted as saying. "French women do not favor startling changes, and many who set the styles have not money enough now to buy the quantity of clothes changes demand."

Patou says, in answer: "It is the American woman who has so much of the 'pep' that she does not care to have one style last too long. It is not so much the French woman as the American who desires short dresses." Patou designs 'em barely knee-length.

COLONIAL GOWNS AND HEIRLOOMS SHOWN

Hospitality of Early Days Revived at Tea Given Tuesday by Daughters of American Revolution

Hospitality of colonial days was revived yesterday afternoon, when Daughters of the American Revolution of General Richard Gridley chapter celebrated inauguration day with a tea at the home of Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, 246 North Central avenue. Many of the hostesses wore gowns of the Revolutionary period and an exhibit of treasured heirlooms and other relics was a feature of the affair.

Over 100 women were present, including national and state officers and representatives from many chapters in the southland. Among the honored guests were Mrs. Charles B. Booth, of Pasadena, national vice regent general of California; Mrs. L. Victor Seydel of Grand Rapids, Mich., regent of Michigan and a candidate for national vice regent general at the coming Continental Congress; Miss Louisa Phillips Merritt of Pasadena, California, state historian; Mrs. May H. Smith of Ontario, national vice chairman of flags; Mrs. S. C. Leppelman of Glendale, state flag vice chairman; Mrs. Harry Coleman of Pasadena, national vice chairman of conservation and thrift; Mrs. F. T. Cooper, state chairman of old trails and roads; regents of other chapters: Mrs. R. L. Post, representing Cabrillo chapter, Los Angeles; Mrs. Ernest E. Jones, regent, Garment chapter, Mrs. B. W. Kinsey, regent, El Camino Regal chapter, Los Angeles; Mrs. Louis P. Crutcher, regent, Gaviota chapter, Long Beach; Mrs. Frances P. Sanders, regent, Long Beach chapter; Mrs. J. R. Lewis, regent, Martin Severance chapter, Pasadena; Mrs. S. Webster French, regent, Pasadena chapter; Mrs. C. B. McKee, regent, San Rafael Hills chapter, Eagle Rock; Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club; Mrs. R. W. Meeker of Glendale, president of the Reciprocity club of Los Angeles.

Play Presented

Miss Ida D. Myers, regent of General Richard Gridley chapter, in becoming colonial gown of rose silk, greeted the company. It was her pleasure to introduce Mrs. Leppelman, who with Mrs. Anne S. Crawford, presented to the chapter an American silk flag, held in a blue and gold standard bearing the D. A. R. monogram. Throughout the afternoon recognition was given the significance of the day. Miss Myers and other speakers mentioned their impressions as they had "listened in" to the morning ceremonies in Washington, D. C.

The program, which had been arranged by Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward and Mrs. Helen K. Scripps, was announced by Mrs. Scripps. Of special enjoyment were the selections by Mrs. Frank Arnold, well-known Glendale singer, and Miss Christine Edwards, violinist, pupil of Calman Lohovski. Mrs. E. R. Ripley accompanied them. Mrs. Arnold sang "All For You," "Li'l Picaninny" and "The Unknown Soldier." Miss Edwards' numbers were "Minuet" (Popera), "Liebeslied" (Kreiser), "Minuet" (Beethoven). (Bothers).

Little Girl Dances

Appearing in quaint black and white frock with cunning poke bonnet, Eleanor Marek, 7 years old, clever Pearl Keller, pupil, gave an old-fashioned dance, a modern jazz dance and a buck and wing dance. Mrs. G. Edwin Murphy of the Emerson School of Self-Expression, also took part in the program, giving two Italian stories and a poem with piano accompaniment played by Mrs. Dean Swindell.

After the program greetings were given by Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Seydel and other guests. Later tea was served, with Mrs. C. W. Houston, vice-regent of the hostess chapter, presiding. Assisting were officers and members.

Impersonate Couple

Adding real Colonial atmosphere to the occasion was the presence of George and Martha Washington, impersonated by Mrs. A. R. Briggs and Mrs. James Gysin, prominent members of the reciprocity club of Los Angeles. Their costumes and make-up were most artistic.

Among the many treasured heirlooms and other relics on exhibit were silver, dishes and a piano that had belonged to Admiral Perry, and other articles of historical value belonging to Mrs. Ocker; silver belonging to Mrs. T. W. Preston; a wonderful quilt, showing scenes from the Revolutionary War, made from curtains that hung in the home of the great-grandmother of A. H. Montgomery; a parchment deed made in 1768 and signed by Robert A. Livingston, for the sale of the estate on Hudson belonging to Mrs. R. W. Meeker's great-grandfather; and countless other things dating back eighty-five, 100 and 150 years. Of great value were many of the gowns worn by chapter members.

HOME DEMAND BOOM OVER COUNTRY

Big Cities and Towns Both Profit By Increased Realty Operation

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, March 5.—The big cities of the country are growing bigger and so are the smaller towns. Those facts account for the extraordinarily active real estate market which exists today. In the larger cities the increase in demand for business property has been tremendous. In the suburban districts and the smaller towns demand for residence property shows great activity.

What is really a combination of the two trends is shown in the negotiations for the sale of the Equitable building here, which probably will be concluded this week. The deal will involve the purchase of a whole moderate sized community within a larger one. For the structure is one of the three largest office buildings in the world and more than ten thousand people pass through its doors daily. The deal is said to involve $40,000,000. The building has about 1,237,000 square feet of rentable floor space so that each square foot is valued at approximately $32.33. This would indicate no trend toward lower rentals here.

The largest number of inquiries reaching real estate agents is for single family dwellings and realtors predict that the greatest activity will continue in this type of property. Business and investment properties rank high in the number of inquiries received, but the demand is coming from a fewer number of cities.

Highways' Part

Construction of parallel highways between business centers to care for additional motor transport has given a stimulus to sales of property along the new routes, since bus lines will furnish an adequate means of commuting. The general volume of real estate transfers undoubtedly has been increased by the tremendous dealings recorded in Florida and other southern states and in California.

The whole movement has been fostered by a tendency of both business and residential rents to increase and by the shortage in single family dwellings in the smaller cities. Financing of real estate transactions has been easy since there exists at present in nearly every section a plentiful supply of money for loaning, not only on first but on second mortgages.

Building costs still are high but the real estate and building situation has not been so markedly affected by this factor as might be expected since prospective builders and purchasers see no indication that costs will decrease, at least until the present wage agreements in the building trades have expired. There undoubtedly has been some overbuilding of certain types of structures in restricted areas and some over expansion of sub-division activity. But to balance these factors, there is now greater activity in farm lands and in constructions of farm buildings than has been seen since 1920.

Money Plentiful

About 125 cities out of 253 still report a shortage of single family residences and 78 are lacking in apartment structures. According to a survey by the national association of real estate boards, 27 centers reported overbuilding of which only six still lack all types of construction. Another year of active building operations will add materially to those cities which report a surplus, but it is not likely that farm dwelling needs will be filled within that time.

Mortgage money is plentiful in practically every city of 250,000 inhabitants and over, but it is difficult to get funds in 35 percent of the cities under 250,000. Cities of between 100,000 and 250,000 people are now enjoying the greatest sub-division activity in their history.

INSURANCE IS GIVEN BIG IMPETUS

Larger Firms Report Biggest Business In History For Two Months

NEW YORK, March 5.—The insurance companies of the United States have had the biggest two months in their history since January. One of the most successful insurance men in America was responsible for that statement to the writer today. The present prosperity of the country and the activity in business and industry are held accountable. The increase in the sale of life insurance has been marked both in the number of policies written and their average amount.

The cost of living has gone up, but so has the value of a life. Both the insurance companies and those insured have recognized that fact. Formerly big insurance companies were loathe to assume a risk on a single individual in excess of $250,000. Now for a man to be insured for a million or more is not a novelty. With the increase in his earning capacity and more general employment, the man in moderate circumstances has felt able and willing to add to the insurance protection he could leave his family.

Large corporations have found it expedient to insure their employees and executives. Good executives are scarce and the custom has become general of protecting the organization from possible loss from the death of an executive until a man can be found or trained to take his place.

Group Insurance

Group insurance has grown by leaps and bounds. This movement has been augmented by the fact that premiums paid by an employer on a policy on the life of an employee under which the family of the employee is the beneficiary are deductible from income tax returns as expenses of the business.

The growth of group insurance has not served to check the spread of individual insurance among wage earners, according to Edgar Reeve of the New York Life, who has written nearly $2,000,000 worth of insurance in the last year. It has merely served to draw their attention to the benefits of insurance. As a result, they are eager to add to the benefits which accrue under the group plan.

The same is true of the continuation of the governmental insurance opened to members of the American forces during the war. This insurance is at an exceptionally low rate, but in many instances, men who have kept up their payments have also taken out policies with various insurance corporations.

Inheritance Taxes

Agents declare that perhaps the greatest influence in promoting increase of life insurance has been the income and inheritance taxes. This is especially true in the case of wealthy men. Under the federal revenue act of 1924 inheritance taxes range from 1 per cent on the first $50,000 to 40 per cent on all over $10,000,000. The total tax on a $50,000,000 estate would be $18,561,000. Men with large fortunes are taking out insurance to cover taxes such as these and to obviate the difficulties attendant upon administration of an estate consisting of stocks, bonds and real estate in the various states. In one instance, a state declined to permit the transfer of a stock certificate at the request of an administrator because the company represented by the stock owned property in that state. The state asserted that the deceased through his stockownership was a part owner in the property of the company and declined to permit transfer until a state inheritance tax had been paid.

Insurance men declare that an insurance estate is practically free from taxation, having paid its taxes at the source in the securities represented in the reserve of the insurance company.

Rub the Chest

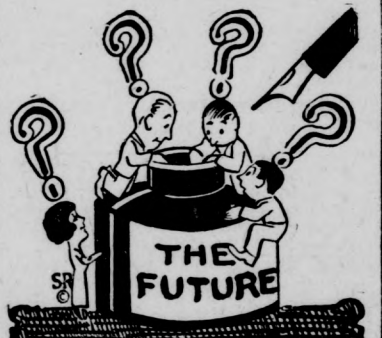

For Deep, Heavy Colds

Here is the best way to get rid of a bad cold. First, apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores of the skin.

Then massage briskly with Vicks for five minutes, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel cloths. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the affected parts.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, helping the vapors inhaled to relieve tightness and soreness.

BUILDING BOOM

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—Building construction involving $100,000,000 was started in central and northern California in February. The projects include a big newspaper plant, three movie theatres, harbor developments, lumber terminals and irrigation and power projects.

TRACTOR BUSINESS

KANSAS CITY, March 5.—"The tractor business is 200 per cent above that of last year," according to General Manager Voorhees of the Kansas City branch of the Advance-Rumley Thresher Co.

EXHIBITS of forty local automobile and accessory dealers, approximating a valuation of $200,000, will be seen at the first annual Automobile show of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, opening Saturday, March 7, and continuing eight days, at the northwest corner of South Brand boulevard and Magnolia avenue, under a 100 x 310-foot tent. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 5000 people nightly.

There will be 1000 running feet of exhibits and 30,000 square feet of floor space, according to P. A. Kelley, chairman of the committee on arrangements. Thirty-two 750-watt electric globes, suspended from seven-foot chandeliers, and 3000 fifty-watt globes located at various parts of the big tent, will furnish illumination. The color scheme will be orange and black, worked out in a system of elaborate decorations.

At one end there will be a 22x40-foot stage, and here a complete musical revue will be staged each night, with twelve dancing girls and a comedian. In addition, there will be a dozen vaudeville numbers, different each night, all under the direction of Miss Millie Marlowe, reputed to be one of the most talented women in the business.

The entire floor will be boarded and the space under each car will be covered with green burlap, Mr. Kelley states. The sides of the booths will be framed in decorated partitions. The three main aisles will be partitioned off as well.

On the opening night Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale will deliver an address of welcome. The response will be made by Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association. Other prominent citizens will appear on this opening program, which is now being arranged, states Mr. Kelley.

In order that the first annual Automobile show of the local car dealers may be made one of the most popular entertainments ever

HIGHWAY FUND IN STATE IS $4,820,347

Engineer Gives Figures To
Senate Motor Vehicle
Committee Members

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service
Special to The Evening News.
SACRAMENTO, March 5.—Tax doing automobile owners will be unable to avoid the provisions of Boggs bill approved by Senate motor vehicle committee in Legislature. Before licenses will be granted under this act, which Senator A. H. Breed predicts will pass, it will be necessary for applicants for license plates to present their tax receipts.

State Highway Engineer R. M. Morton appeared before committee and answered questions submitted to the California Highway committee, stressing fact that $217,262,422 is the amount needed to complete the present highway system.

He gave the financial condition of the highway commission as of January 1, saying the funds for primary construction shows $4,820,347.88 available for new projects. However, this sum consists of uncollected federal aid, all of which will not be in the commission's hands for two years.

Data On Roads
A series of questions submitted to Morton by the committee brought forth these data:

There are 3,130.37 miles of bond issue roads, approximately 170 sections on forty different routes, which are uncompleted or on which additional work must be done before they can be considered completed. On 1906.2 miles no work had been done by the state up to July 1, 1924.

The estimated cost of completing the bond issue roads was placed at $185,896,379. Legislative act roads added to the system comprise 746.90 miles, the estimated cost to complete which was placed at $31,366,044, making the total estimated cost of completing the state highway system $217,262,422.

WOMEN WANT ROAD CAMP
RIVERSIDE, March 5.—Adoption of Sheriff Clem Sweetser's plan for establishing a road camp for county prisoners and correction of "deplorable conditions" in Riverside county dance halls are urged by the Riverside County Federation of Women's clubs, in resolutions received by the board of supervisors. "There is a deplorable condition in the conduct of dance halls in Riverside county," the resolutions claim.

NO UNION IN CITY

LONG BEACH, March 5.—There will be no municipal employees' union in Long Beach, City Manager Windham has declared in a statement answering announcement of L. W. Towner, president of the Municipal Employees' association. Turner had said the association was organized to promote "better employees, better pay and better working conditions." "When I assented to the formation of the association I understood it was for social purposes only," the city manager declared. "Under no circumstances will the city permit any association to dictate to it regarding pay or working conditions." Towner himself had nothing to say in reply to the city manager, but other officers of the association drew up a statement amounting to a repudiation of Towner.

DATE GROWERS TO MEET

EL CENTRO, March 5.—Date growers throughout the valley are preparing for the annual date growers' institute, to be held in the Coachella valley on March 7. Growers from Arizona and California will be in attendance at the institute, which will occupy the entire day. The institute is held under the auspices of the agricultural extension service office of the Riverside and Imperial farm advisers, the date growers' department of the Imperial county farm bureau and the Coachella valley farm center.

BIG FARM PURCHASED

SANTA MARIA, March 5.—Another Santa Maria real estate transaction involving more than $100,000 has been completed. Hamilton brothers of Long Beach purchased 400 acres of the Eldridge estate four miles southwest of the city. The new owners have announced that they will install immediately a huge pumping plant to irrigate 200 acres of the land for alfalfa. The remaining 200 acres is covered by an oil lease which also was transferred to the new owners.

ENSEMBLE DRESS

PARIS, March 5.—The language of fashions here has become somewhat anglicized. The ensemble has given way to the costume suit. One of the newest consists of a rose and beige plaid woolen frock over which falls a pale pink georgette tunic falling into ripples below the hips. When the redignote, which tops all, is buttoned, the effect is strictly tailored. Without the top coat the wearer could attend the most elaborate afternoon party.

NEW DISC CLUTCH PROVING POPULAR

Motorists Driving Latest Type of Chevrolet Car Notice Difference

Smooth motor car operation is one of the most desirable qualities in any automobile today because of the extensive and constant use to which the average car is put on both short and long trips. The hundreds who have purchased the new Chevrolet report to the Glendale dealer, James V. Hough, 241 South Orange street, that the driving of this car requires little physical effort, due in great measure to the perfected single plate dry disc clutch.

This new type clutch not only starts the car smoothly and operates with only a slight pedal pressure, but has such large contact surface that it delivers all the power all the time. It requires no lubrication.

The already famous Chevrolet has been refined and improved in many ways, such as heavier crank shaft with larger connecting rod bearings; shorter intake manifold; rocker arms and valves completely enclosed. The instrument has been refined in design and appearance. The Chevrolet line will be on display at the auto show.

FIRM TO DISPLAY NEW STUDEBAKER

Packer Motor Co. Has Latest Model Ready for Auto Show On Saturday

Replete with smart appearance and distinctive features not common to cars of its class, and with a quality of chassis and body construction that arrests immediate attention, the new Studebaker standard six, four-door brougham is on display at the Packer Motor Co.'s show rooms, Brand boulevard and Colorado street, as the newest of the new body types the Studebaker has created. The Packer Motor Co. will also have a complete exhibit at the Glendale automobile show.

The body of the new brougham is close to the ground. Above full balloon tires with 5.25 inch casings, the car is mounted on a chassis of 113-inch wheelbase, with a 50-horsepower motor carried on its own sub-frame as a unit with the transmission. All instruments are assembled under one oval glass, indirectly lighted, eliminating projecting knobs and handles, giving the driver at one glance a complete view of the workings of his entire power plant, as well as a view, by means of the gasoline gauge, of exactly how many gallons of gasoline he has in the tank.

Nash Leads the World in Motor Car Value

YOU ARE BEHIND THE TIMES WITHOUT 4-WHEEL BRAKES

Note These Features of Nash 4-Wheel Brakes:

- 1 They are fully equalized—to right and left, to front and rear.
- 2 They have been engineered to an unique degree of simplified design.
- 3 They have fewer points requiring lubrication than any other mechanical brake system known.
- 4 They are entirely encased in front and thus kept completely free from dirt and water.
- 5 They are permanent of adjustment.
- 6 They operate perfectly in all temperatures and climates.
- 7 Perfect steering control is assured by scientific distribution of the pressure so that 60% is applied to the rear brakes and 40% to the front.

Here's the brake situation in a nutshell: Some cars keep pace with engineering advancement. BUT some do not.

The newest and most striking motor car improvement is the 4-wheel brake. But some cars still cling to the old, rear-wheel type of braking. The chart above shows clearly that such cars are losing ground rapidly. Alert buyers are choosing cars with 4-wheel brakes and "drive shaft" brakes.

Nash has both as standard equipment on all Special Six and Advanced Six models.

And so Nash is smashing sales records as fast as they are made because Nash cars are the most notably modern cars on the market in point of advanced engineering, new body designs, flashing performance, and in downright value for the price.

—and because Nash 4-wheel brakes are the greatest 4-wheel brakes of this motor car era.

In distinct and decisive advantages they stand out above all other 4-wheel brakes.

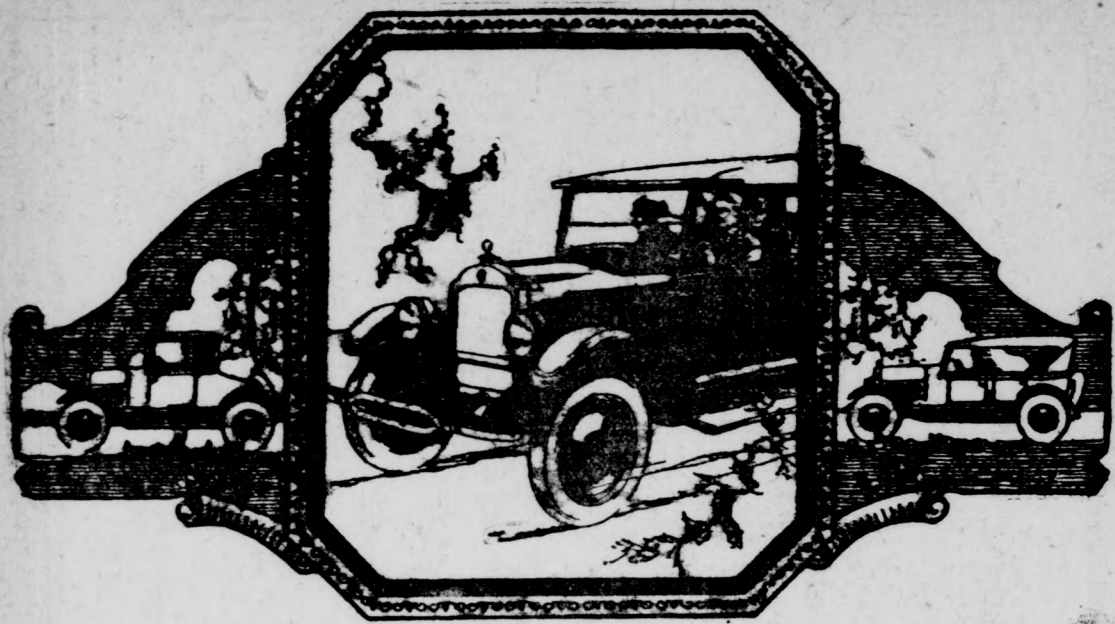

They are fully equalized on all 4 wheels. They are simpler in design, have fewer points requiring lubrication than any other mechanical brakes, are permanent of adjustment—and possess a power and smoothness in application that is literally unequalled. They are standard equipment on all models at no extra cost.

PACKARD SIX TO ATTRACT CROWDS

Radical Price Reductions
Have Been Announced
By Factory Heads

Glendale people will take particular pains to see the new Packard Six models on display at the auto show. Radical price reductions in the enclosed six-cylinder models has just been announced by the Packard Motor Co., creating a mild sensation in the automobile world. Hence the anticipated interest of Glendale people in this popular car.

"The price reduction of the Packard Six makes the various models easily the outstanding auto value of the year," W. H. Daniels, of the Dixie Motor Co., Packard distributors for Glendale, said.

"The six has been manufactured now for four years," Mr. Daniels said. "In these four years many refinements and improvements have been made upon the original Packard Six, we believe, stands without a peer in its class on the auto market today."

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, March 5.—The question of merging the Montrose Chamber of Commerce and the La Crescenta Improvement association into one big organization was tabled at the monthly meeting of the Chamber held Tuesday night in the Montrose school. Secretary Frank B. Turner was absent and it was not reported how many paid-up members there are at this time. C. J. Reinhard made a motion to the effect the motion be laid over until the next meeting, seconded by L. Alden and unanimously passed. President James Brown asked the minutes of the special meeting of the boards of directors of the Montrose and La Crescenta chambers be read by A. E. Sullivan, acting secretary. Sheridan Young reporting for the committee on electric signs said $500 was the average cost of a large one.

After many remarks on the placing of the sign and where it would be placed, members voted in favor of purchasing it as against five opposed. A. B. Cochran moved the committee be empowered to spend no more than $500 for installing the sign, seconded by C. L. Reinhard, and passed.

T. O. Potts moved the Chamber be not responsible for the maintenance of sign, seconded by A. B. Cochran and passed. Treasurer W. Merritt reported $899 in treasury. A. E. Sullivan reporting for roads committee stated Honolulu avenue will be widened to ninety feet.

C. L. Mead said in reporting for the fire committee that he had received word from the county that every one would have to clean vacant lots, if not, the county would be obliged to do so and charge the work to property owners. Mr. Mead also reported to date thirty-six fire hydrants had been installed and more were to be placed.

Mr. Clark, on parks, stated the county surveyors had been so busy that they had been unable to send out surveyors to take care of curbing on Florentia drive where the new park is to be established. Theo Belanger reporting for safety signal committee said the county did not approve of the flash sign being placed at the intersection of Montrose and Honolulu avenues.

Mr. O'Leary asked for permission to speak on the flood control and stated the county authorities did not accept the matter as feasible and did not think enough people in valley were back of the movement after receiving indorsement of La Crescenta, the consent of Verdugo City association of Commerce and The Montrose C. C.

Mr. L. Alden gave a report on recommendations of findings of auditing committee, accepted, also the suggestion for conducting a routine business. Meeting adjourned to April 7 when the matter of a merger will again be brought up.

A petition is being circulated to have all the valley rural mail distributed from the Montrose postoffice. The paper carries signatures from every part of the valley as the residents are anxious to have the service of the Glendale office.

As trustee of the Crescenta valley school board C. J. Reinhard will complete his term this next month. His friends in the valley feel the splendid work he has done so far should merit attention and therefore are asking the support of the taxpayers in re-electing him to succeed himself. It is particularly fitting he should be returned to office at this time as he is most interested in the building program to be carried out when two rooms are to be added to the Montrose school. It is also felt that Montrose should be represented on the board, it was pointed out.

IDENTIFY PRINTS

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Finger prints found on the automobile in which Albert Rosenbaum, Los Angeles broker, was murdered here last November, were identified as those of Russell Van Bibber, 30, Kansas City painter. Van Bibber, who is held at Reno, Nev., will be brought here to face murder charges.

CUFFS ON GLOVES

NEW YORK, March 5.—Cuffs on gloves are growing shorter, much to the disgust of those with plump wrists and stubby fingers. Many of the new models are heavily embroidered and some are lined at the cuffs with tartan silks which go well with nearly any daytime costume.

SETS NEW RECORD FOR AUTO SALES

Hupmobile Agency Here Has Unusual Business For Month of February

A record of achievement has been made by H. W. Swanson, 111 West Harvard street, Jordan and Hupmobile distributor, since he opened his establishment in Glendale in July, 1924. Mr. Swanson first established in Hollywood in 1923 and moved to Glendale later.

Though records have been shattered on numerous occasions for sales since the Glendale display rooms have opened, February stands as the banner month in both new and used car business. H. V. White, in charge of the agency stated today, Glendale is the best auto sales territory he has ever had, Mr. White said. In speaking of the Hup models that will be on display at the show, Mr. White said:

"Much of the sweeping popularity of the Hupmobile eight is due to the remarkably compact motor and the graceful body lines of open and closed models alike. Another thing is the class of the car. It breathes distinction in every line. Mechanically perfect, the Hupmobile is, as well, artistically perfect. It is a joy to drive this car, both for its performance and for its beauty."

DENIES EXTORTION

SACRAMENTO, March 5.—State Senator Edgar S. Hurley of Oakland on the witness stand today before the assembly committee investigating charges of extortion in connection with the Smith Chinese herb bill, made emphatic denial that he had ever made any arrangements with anybody to receive money for working against the bill.

EMPLOYMENT

CHICAGO, March 5.—Employment in this district showed a slight increase during January, although payrolls decreased a bit, due to layoffs. Metals and metal products showed the largest gain in employment, while construction work, meat packing, food products and rubber products showed decreases.

APPOINTEES OUT

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Twenty-five of President Coolidge's appointments to public office died with the sixty-eighth Congress. The list was headed by the nomination of Charles B. Warren of Detroit as attorney-general. His name, it was learned, will be returned to the Senate by the president.

Entertainer at Auto Show

HAZEL BOYD, that fast stepping, laugh maker with the Revue Girls at the first annual Glendale Auto Show, which will open Saturday night at Brand Boulevard and Magnolia street in the large tent.

Everything is ready for the "zero hour." Every exhibitor and every member of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, who has spent time, patience and energy in perfecting his or their display, the better to prove the worth of the slogan, "Buy in Glendale," is ready for the grand opening Saturday night at 7 o'clock. The opening of the motor car exposition means more than the mere collection of admittance fee—10 cents—the entrance of the visitor into the confines of the large tentorium located at Brand boulevard and Magnolia street. Back of it all is the spirit of co-operation which has made this show a reality, and it is the spirit of harmony, of good will and of vital interest to the people of this community—it spells progress—and progress is what the Motor Car Dealers' association stands for—progress and prosperity for the people in general of Glendale. Attractively planned and artistically decorated, the great tent pavilion takes on the appearance of a permanent exposition. There has been a good-natured rivalry among the exhibitors and some cleverly conceived displays will greet the visitor. Ten big entertainment features will be offered on the program each night with a complete change each night of the show, which will be open from March 7 to 14, inclusive.

offered in the city, the admission price has been fixed at the low price of 10 cents. This will serve merely to defray a portion of the heavy expense to which the association is put in staging the show, Mr. Kelley states.

Some idea of the scope of this show is gained from the fact that twenty local carpenters and a number of local electricians and other Glendale workers are being employed in getting the tent ready. Monday night, March 2, a program by the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association was broadcast over KJH, under the direction of Gould Warren. A number of excellent musical numbers were given and the news of the coming show was sent forth all up and down the Pacific coast.

Speaking of what this show means to Glendale, President Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association said:

"Glendale people will have an opportunity at the Automobile show to see the latest models of all the leading makes of cars. Twenty members of the association have already signed up for space. This means that every person in the market for an automobile will have an unequalled opportunity to study the various makes at close range and make comparisons. Cars to satisfy every pocketbook and every taste will be on display.

"There is nothing more true than that trading at home builds a city. The members of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association are Glendale firms, doing business in Glendale, spending their money in Glendale, living in Glendale and deserving of Glendale patronage. This show is limited to Glendale dealers in automobiles and accessories, not because we have any desire to keep anyone out but because we have in our membership everything in the way of motor cars and accessories that can be obtained in Los Angeles or elsewhere. For those that are not acquainted with this fact, the show will be doubly a revelation."

Following is a partial list of local firms who have taken space in the first annual Automobile show of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association:

PREPARES DRIVE

Auto Rubber Enamel Polish Campaign To Open Next Saturday

A concentrated campaign is scheduled to start next Saturday in Glendale and is being waged by the Golden Gloss Products Co., of Los Angeles. W. R. Socket, general manager of the firm, states that Golden Gloss has been sold by several dealers in Glendale for some time but no real drive has ever been attempted in this territory before and now that Glendale's first automotive show is going to be held, he thought this would be an opportune time to go after real business.

A special offer is to be the incentive and will be held only during the show week, March 7 to 14, inclusive. For the Glendale territory only they are offering $1,000 worth of Golden Gloss top dressing will be given away free. To each person purchasing a quart can of Golden Gloss rubber auto enamel a pint can of top dressing will be given them absolutely free.

Standard Colors
Golden Gloss Rubber Enamel for automobiles can be had in all standard colors, including cream and black. One quart is sufficient to cover the average car unless a two coat job is wanted and then a little more of the enamel is needed.

Mr. Socket claims that his product has a certain appeal for the car owner who wants to paint his own car as it takes only two or three hours to apply a coat of Golden Gloss rubber auto enamel and it dries overnight. The only requirements are a dustless room or garage and an ordinary clean paint brush. The result is a beautiful high gloss, one coat finish that will withstand every climatic condition without checking or cracking.

NASH MODELS TO BE ON DISPLAY

M'Daniel Motor Co. To Have Attractive Booth With Latest Styles

In commenting on the new Nash and the Glendale auto show, Charles McDaniel, president of the McDaniel Motor Co., Nash distributors said:

"Of all the year, this is the best time to shop for an automobile. The new Nash models will be on display, showing the latest details of finish and appointments. The Nash of 1925 is ready for inspection and in many ways reflects amazing progress in automotive design and construction."

"Whether you intend to buy a new car now or later, now is the time to begin. The show will give you an opportunity to make a close and detailed comparison of the different cars. You can accomplish at one visit to the show what it would take you a week to do otherwise."

Irwin Smith Gives Motorists Chance To Pay While Riding On Vikings

As little as $1 down buys a tire at the Smith Tire Co., 239 South Brand boulevard. The balance can be arranged in easy payments, states Irwin Smith, manager. Viking cords, "the hardy tires," are featured.

"These are strong, honest tires," says Mr. Smith. "They contain more material than ordinary tires and weigh more. That means more mileage and more for your money."

"Our credit plan is to extend credit to tire users without additional cost, thus affording car drivers the opportunity of running on good rubber and paying on convenient installments."

Highway Investigation Body Report To Governor Is So Construed

SACRAMENTO, March 5.—The complete majority report of Governor Richardson's highway investigating committee, which has been submitted to the Legislature, contains a definite recommendation that the new construction program be financed by a direct tax on motorists.

Either an increased gasoline tax or a graduated weight tax on motor vehicles could be used, the report states, but, regardless of what method is determined upon, at least $10,000,000 per year should be provided for primary construction.

The minority report of the governor's committee signed by E. E. East of Los Angeles, who bolted the final hearing of the committee differs radically from the findings of the majority disapproving any further tax on motorists and recommending that additional money for highways be raised by bond issues. For this purpose, East said, the state should be divided into two districts—northern and southern, each district floating its own bonds and building its own highways.

You Cannot Get Equal Style, Performance and Reliability Within Hundreds of Dollars of Its Price

Essex is a totally different type. Its advantages are exclusive because patented. It gives results never before attained in any car:

- Low price, without disappointment in looks or reliability.
- Economy without sacrifice of performance.
- Stability and highest roadability without unnecessary weight.
- The riding ease of large, costly cars. The handling ease of a bicycle. Utter simplicity in design.
- The lowest maintenance cost, we believe, of any car in the world.

A Car You Will Be Proud to Own

These qualities make it the most wanted and largest selling car of its class in the world.

It is the finest Essex ever built. It is the smoothest, most reliable Essex ever built. It is the best looking, most comfortably riding Essex ever built. And the price, because of volume, is the lowest at which Essex ever sold.

Surely you cannot be satisfied with less than Essex offers when its cost is but little more than cars of the lowest price.

None Can Copy Its Chief Values

The Chassis Is Patented

Just as the Coach, invented by Hudson-Essex, changed practically all buying to closed cars, so the patented Super-Six principle and other exclusive advantages, forecast the mechanical design which all must seek to rival.

But the extensive copying of the Coach type and the Coach name, even by costliest cars, cannot be carried to the Essex chassis. That is patented and no other maker can use it. It is responsible for the smooth vibrationless performance and long lasting reliability for which Essex is famous everywhere.

Hudson and Essex are of one quality.

OVERLAND TO BE PUT ON DISPLAY

Murray Motors, Inc., to Have Exhibit of Newest 1925 Models At Show

Willis-Knight and Overland cars, formerly sold in Glendale by B. W. Solan, Inc., at 905 South Brand boulevard, are now handled by Murray Motors, Inc., H. H. Murray taking over the agency last September. Mr. Murray is president of the firm and E. B. Dunn is sales manager. Special plans have been made for an exhibit of the new 1925 models of both lines at the auto show to begin Saturday.

Outstanding features of the 1925 series are the many improvements in the Willis-Knight Four and the new Overland Six. The 1925 Willis-Knight Four, it is asserted, eclipses in originality and refinement of design all previous Willis-Knight achievements. Longer, lower lines, narrower and deeper radiator, conforming in appearance to its six-cylinder cousin, are characteristic of the touring car, business coupe, coupe-sedan, brougham and sedan now being mounted on the four-cylinder chassis. Mitchell green, brown, grey, Everest blue and black are the colors.

The King brothers are well known in the auto paint business in Glendale, having come here twenty-eight years ago and engaging in the repair line virtually ever since that time.

In their new location, King Barton will retain charge of the shop and garage department. Don will manage the sales end. In speaking of their show display, Don Barton announced that the feature of the Barton Bros. display would be a Chandler Metropolitan sedan, Cleveland coach and deluxe four-door sedan will also be shown.

When Satisfaction Sells Cars

HARRY W. BROUGH, a member of the firm of Dilley-Brough Co., furniture dealers at 314 East Broadway, purchased a CHRYSLER Standard Imperial sedan. His mother, MRS. EMILY D. MOCO FINISH TO BE BIG FEATURE

C. H. Arbenz To Have Car At Show Depicting Beauty Of Work He Does

"You'll miss half the show, if you don't see the automobile finished in Moco," was the comment of C. H. Arbenz, 747 South San Fernando road, famous for his one-day auto paint service, "Moco" is the latest and the best, and everybody is going to want to see it.

Mr. Arbenz specializes in fine paint jobs in one, two, three days or a week, according to the need and the class of the job. "The big plant where satisfaction is assured" is the title awarded the Arbenz concern by its many loyal friends who have found service and satisfaction when dealing with Mr. Arbenz.

At a wedding at Weymouth, England, recently, the groom was three feet, ten inches tall, and his bride, two inches shorter.

The beauty and the power of the Chrysler Standard Imperial sedan, that was recently purchased from the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, local Chrysler and Maxwell dealers, by Harry W. Brough, were so impressive and so appealing to his mother, Mrs. Emily D. Brough, that she was not satisfied with the idea of having to share the Chrysler with anyone, and she insisted on trading in her own car, a high-priced vehicle, and in purchasing a Crown Imperial Chrysler sedan exclusively for her own use.

Mrs. Brough and her son came here a short time ago from Roswell, New Mexico, and the latter became associated with Clark Dilley in the Dilley-Brough Co., furniture dealers, at 314 East Broadway.

"Mrs. Brough's eagerness to secure her new Chrysler," says Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Co., "was the natural result of her experience in riding in her son's car, for she readily learned the advantages that the Chrysler possesses over any other car, not only in its appearance, but in its riding comfort, its engineering principles that are far ahead of those to be found in other cars, and in the reputation that the Chrysler has gained as the most sensational and worth-while value to be found in the automotive world today."

Van Ess Laboratories, Inc. (1923), within three weeks, I lost all my hair. It just dropped out. As I am a pharmacist and a drug store owner, I tried everything that I had for sale and that doctors knew of, but in November, I was still naked on top—nothing but a little white fuzz.
Then—in January, my wife left me for five months' tour. When she returned in June I had seven inches of hair all over my head. I had no more hair loss. Van Ess, it's hair insurance.

Spring and Rookies Are Here

They come together the same time of the year, according to baseball fans, for when the gentle breezes waft the warmless winds away, the battle with the contract is over and the would-bes, has-beens and really-are players start southward.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Written for The Evening News

You don't have to listen for the first chirp of the robin, peer intently for the first bud of the sprightly crocus or anemone or look at the lining of the old overcoat to figure if spring has come.

Just take a look at the nearest big league ball player.

If you find him talking swings with an imaginary bat at an imaginary curve—that he couldn't hit in mid-season—or find him leaping playfully into the air to pull down a phantom boulder, you'll know that "spring is here" as the saying goes.

Spring is coming daily for these lucky birds.

Winter is a terrible season for a ball player. First of all, he has to find a job. Then there are only two big days for him in the whole gloomy period—the day the official averages are issued and the day his next year's contract comes.

If the official averages knock one hit off the unofficial figures the best thing to do is to lock up said ball player. If they give him what he ought to have—or a little bit more you can't hold him.

The day his contract arrives his heart is all afluster. Few ball players under a contract of more than one year. Which means that the average ball tosser roams about most of the winter wondering what sad news Uncle Sam'll bring him early in February.

Any temporary enthusiasm aroused by his work in the closing weeks of the previous campaign has died down at headquarters by the time the new contract is filled out in the ball club offices. "Them's" cold hard figures that he reads. As he reads 'em, however, that one double he socked with the bases full in the last series at Chicago stands out more vividly than the two months he hit .157.

He opens the letter, reads the sad news and then delivers what probably goes unheard, but might be ranked with the classics.

About the time he decides that he'll tear up the contract and stick at the garage he gets the odor of a juicy steak from next door, which somehow reminds him of the training camp. The C. D. & X. whistles on the low grade. That doesn't sound so bad. The door opens and in comes a nice patch of zero atmosphere.

"Who opened that door?"

But, "No, no baseball at that salary," he mutters. His wrath increases. He gets so mad he goes upstairs and gets out the old gloves, puts it on, spits on it, dig his fist into it, and then slams it down in disgust, only to pick it up and brush the dust off. My, ut he's awn-a-ay. Then he takes the air to cool off. The first person he meets is "Joe."

"Well, Woofus, you'll be hitting the road for the camp in a few days, won't you? Gee, pretty soft for you guys."

"Mum, mum, mum-m-m-m," says Woofus. But that's the first round and it goes to the ball club. He meets Bill.

"How's the contract this year, Woofus," says Will.

"They came to me," says Woofus, truthfully but not explicitly.

And the second round goes to the ball club.

It takes a lot of nerve to let the home folks know there wasn't any increase in the missive.

A few more rounds and he throws the sponge in, signs the contract and sends it back.

And another good ball player is ready for the opening bell.

It is an interesting fact that Ohio State and Indiana, who have been well up among the leaders in the big ten basketball race have never won a western conference title.

All in all there are five big ten members that have yet to win an undisputed conference championship. They are Ohio State, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana and Northwestern. Michigan and Iowa have figured in one tie.

Since 1912 the conference throne has been occupied eight out of fourteen times by Wisconsin. Part of the time the occupancy has been exclusive but she has had to share the seat of honor.

NEW YORK, March 5.—If Ohio State wins the western conference basketball race now nearing its close and Princeton wins the eastern intercollegiate title there will be no need of an inter-sectional game to select a champion.

For Princeton defeated Ohio State in the course of her Christmas trip to the middle west. Ohio State might put forth the contention that this was an early season game and not a true line up on the merits of the Buckeye team.

There will be all sorts of logical warrant in this point, but if football be a precedent it will not hold water for a second. For, as in the case of inter-sectional gridiron games, the defeated team is held to the consequences of its beating irrespective of when the game took place.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

PASO ROBLES, March 5.—The keynote of this camp is Niehaus.

Not a soul who is here will say so but more furtive glances are cast toward Niehaus when he is mixing himself in a play than when a passing breeze hovers near his vicinity and she is not carrying weight for style.

The Pirates have not been here long—not even long enough to get intimately acquainted with the varying moods of the hams that are served them at the matutinal hour, but they know that their future in 1925 is more or less involved in the underpinning of this young man who played first base for Chattanooga last year and will play first for Pittsburgh this year if the fates breathe blessings over him and do not scourge him.

It was past the noon hour—considerably past, in fact—when Niehaus walked to the plate to take a long swing at the ball. The train had just arrived from San Francisco and the trail of the pilgrims had taken its way from the station to the ball grounds.

Niehaus, as he stood waiting his turn, made one think not a little of Bill Ryan, the pitcher who has hated a home run in a world series. He carried a well shaped head on top of a very fine torso and a well curved neck as Bill carries his.

And he looks up at you with the same graciously surprised air that Bill uses when he is spoken to. The same air of gracious surprise that swept across Bill's face like molasses over a flapjack when he batted that home run in the world series.

He has a very nice stand at the plate—Niehaus, not Bill. He neither sprawls nor crouches as if he were trying to sight a penny in the slot picture through the slit. The ball came his way and he cut at it quickly and sharply, and it travelled out toward right field on a line and with speed.

Sixteen pairs of eyes, more or less, peeked out of thirty-two corners to see whether some one else had seen that hit, and as quickly peeked back, all fearing that everybody else was doing just what everybody else was doing. Some grinned and others beamed.

Niehaus bats right handed and he does not bat as if he were fanning chaff out of the wheat, but he cuts into the ball with a pretty slash that gives the impression that he has been following it all the way up and knows why he swung at it. Batters of that type make good in baseball and, if he can hit and hold that position at the bat, he will make this Pittsburgh team.

If he does not, Barney Dreyfuss will shrug his shoulders and remark, "Well, you got to take your chances in baseball like everything else, only you gotta take 'em all of the time."

And Sam Dreyfuss, who is here and who has already trained himself down to one size less in stockings and one in his pair of sneakers, will tell everybody that the dope was wrong again.

No one is going to be foolish enough to say that Niehaus is the swallow who will make the Pittsburgh summer after seeing him bat just once, but there has been opportunity in other seasons to see him bat and he did it well. And so, if he has not lost the fine art, he should be doing it again.

Sam Strong, the old Giant, says he can hit. You can't get away from the fact that he is a lot of the best in the Pittsburgh club for 1925 is mixed up with the first letter N, in Niehaus, and the last letter S. Give these Pirates a first baseman, and they will get somewhere, although they are clamoring for pitchers, like all the rest.

Aldridge, the Chicago pitcher, who was involved in the trade with the Cubs, has not signed a Pittsburgh contract. The Cubs, having traded him to Pittsburgh, say now that he is a hard man to sign. That often happens in baseball, one club lets a player go, and the club that gets him finds the player will not play for less than $7,000, although he has hitherto been glad to get $4,000. Thus the club which gets this player meets the other fellow who traded him and paid how to beat the maize and blue

DYNAMITERS IN FOUR-SIDED MEET

Glendale, Competes Friday With Cal-Tech Frosh, Monrovia, Alhambra

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR. Of The Evening News Staff.

After having made quite a reputation by cleaning up on the Oxy Frosh Tuesday, on Patterson field, the Glendale track team will conclusively prove itself tomorrow, when it hooks up with the Cal-Tech Frosh, Monrovia and Alhambra High school teams in a four-cornered meet on the Peagreeners' field at 3:30 o'clock.

If the Dynamiters are able to win tomorrow, they will have an excellent chance of winning the league title, as they have decisively beaten the Citrus tracksters, and a win tomorrow will practically eliminate Monrovia and Alhambra. Covina is reputed to be a tough outfit, and undoubtedly will give Glendale a battle in the regular league meet, which comes off on the local field at Broadway High during the latter part of March.

"Daisy Dozen" Purdy and "Seedy" Maydwell can be counted upon to pull in a flock of points tomorrow in the dashes. Bill Bradbury and Ellsworth de Parec ought to do something in the shot, and Squires ought to make a sweep of the discus. Bud Elliott is also slated to register a few digits in the broad jump.

Ross Slocum and "Waikiki" Wykof, both underclassmen, have shown real speed in the 100-yard dash in the recent meets, and will both probably figure near the top if they hit their stride. Glendale's relay team ought to also be in the running.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP BY FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, March 5.—Sid Terris is working on wallop by which he expects in time to batter his way to the lightweight title. Monday night in Newark he uncorked it in the tenth round in the Pal Moran bout, and if it contained about ten more foot pounds, as the scientists say, Pal would have gone to his corner feet first.

As it was, the New Orleans Italian who is about as durable as they come, crashed against the ropes, then wondered how he got there.

Out in Jersey they pulled something Monday night that other promoters ought to copy. The writer does not say that the Jersey promoters pulled the stunt in question. In fact, it had all the earmarks of a wholly imprudent affair.

Here is what happened. The fight had gone along pleasantly for four rounds and Pal was shattering the air trying to reach Sid while Sid was peppering Moran with harmless lefts. Nothing was happening and nothing seemed likely to happen.

Then in the fifth round with everything still mild a scrap started in the ringside section among the spectators. Compared to the fight in the ring this set to on the floor was like the battle of Gettysburg compared to a newsboy scrap in Park Row.

It was such a dandy scrap that even the fighters stopped to observe it. It was not costing them a cent and they had the best positions of anyone from which to observe it.

him $4000 and the other fellow says:

"Yes, we always had trouble with him at $4000." That makes the man who is the last party of acceptance feel like going right down to the bank and buying his daughter, Amelia, a new diamond ring.

Probably Aldridge will sign. Usually, they do, but he will wheedle a few gallons of gasoline out of the Pittsburgh club before he does.

SPORT CHATTER

By DAVIS J. WALSH For International News Service.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 5.—After advising the youth of the nation about the several and sundry advantages of a western habitat, the late Horace Greeley probably concluded the interview with these few, well chosen words:

"Draw down to your hand, young man, draw down to your hand."

A young man with a shirt to his back who didn't was likely to find himself occupying the great open spaces as a bed chamber. Furthermore, he might still have the back but not the shirt. By that time it usually loved another.

Ty Cobb, the well know major leaguer, probably never heard the parable of the young man and his fickle shirt. Of the thirty-two active players on the Detroit roster at the moment, only nine were in the minor leagues last year. In brief, Ty Cobb is sitting behind three aces and expects to make them stand up. He virtually is standing pat while the rest of the boys are drawing plenty.

This is one of several features which make the camp a rather unique institution. Another is embodied in a drastic rule that confines the manly athletes to two meals a day. A third feature, the fact that not a ball was tossed here until Monday for the reason that no players were in camp. A fourth is the epidemic of buzzards which hover over the playing field.

I was going to make a nasty remark about buzzards always following the dead, but I won't. Anyhow, it is pretty generally admitted that the local variety of buzzards is inclined to be a bit neurotic. Our Mr. Cobb, in fact, simply ignores them.

"No; no; I won't discuss the other teams," he said today in his quick nervous way. "I don't pick pennant races. I just try to develop ball clubs. I think I am justified in standing pat. I have only one position open."

"Ball players eat too much, except when they are working under me. Two meals is enough for any man in active training. As for our late start, I don't believe in an early one. That's a pretty good reason."

The open position is for shortstop, where Emory Rigney, regu-

SAN DIEGO WILL PLAY LOCAL K. C.

Both Teams Undefeated For Past Season: Game To Be Here Sunday

There is going to be a hot time at the old ball park Sunday afternoon, for on that date two undefeated K. C. teams will clash. San Diego Casey's, champions of San Diego City league, will invade Glendale with the intention of trimming the local Casey's, winners of the state championship in K. C. circles, and holders of a clean record for the season.

San Diego has met and defeated the Santa Ana Casey's, runners-up in the Southern California K. C. league, the team Glendale defeated in order to get a chance at the state title in that memorial game at Oakland. San Diego did not play in the Southern California K. C. league this year, being pretty busy in the San Diego City loop.

Irving, who hurled for the Los Angeles council during the season, and McDonald will be the two pitchers. Manager Harry Manush will depend upon Sunday. Myers will do the receiving if he is here, otherwise Shea, Irving's battery mate, will be on the receiving end. Pete Stuhling, whose work at third base is known to Glendale fans, will take the place of Pete O'Shea, who stepped into higher circles this week.

Extra seats will be provided for Sunday's game, Manager Manush has announced. The following Sunday the local Casey's will meet the Glendale Letter Carriers in a battle for the city championship, and, following that game, the Casey's will disband.

For several seasons is attempting to stand off Jack Tavenor, a bright, ambitious young man who is willing to start at the top and work up. Rigney lost favor with Cobb last year by some five-thumbed fielding at critical junctures. He now is running second to Tavenor, an under-sized ball hawk who only hits them every so often.

This reflects the general tendency of the Detroit club away from hitting in favor of defense.

Hills Mean Nothing to Them

C. H. HUNTER, local distributor for OLDSMOBILE cars, is looking around for more hills to conquer with his demonstrator, after successfully making two steep grades on high with the car loaded down, as shown in the accompanying picture.

Just to show what a new Oldsmobile would do, C. H. Hunter, local distributor, recently loaded one of his demonstrators down with eight people and undertook to climb Hill drive, back of the Glendale sanitarium. Without a disconcerting indication, the Oldsmobile went over the hill. School street, in La Canada, with seven passengers aboard, was the next conquest of the Oldsmobile.

"No burro ever went up a hill in better fashion than that Oldsmobile," Mr. Hunter declared. "We picked the steepest hills we could find hereabouts, but they weren't too much for the Oldsmobile. It was impossible to make the hills any steeper, so we did the next best thing that presented itself to our minds. We loaded the car down with all the people we could get to hang on. Still the Olds went over the top. "We are not climbing these hills," explained Mr. Hunter, "to prove anything to ourselves. We know what this little bearcat will do, but there's lots of folks who are driving other cars who have to go up the same hills in second with only four or five in the car. If we can take the Oldsmobile up those hills in high gear, and with a load that is from two to three times the size of the ordinary load, it should prove that the Oldsmobile Six has something these other cars haven't. That's what I'm trying to bring out."

Motor Industry More Stable Than At Any Time In History, Claim

John Neuschaefer, Glendale dealer for the Oakland car, with sales offices at 420 East Colorado boulevard, quotes V. R. Tracy, assistant director of sales for the Oakland Motor Car Co. in Pontiac, Mich., as saying: "The automobile industry is today more stable than at any previous time in its history."

Mr. Tracy continued: "Production of automobiles is now beginning to be taken as an index of prosperity—not simply dependent on the prosperity of other industries."

This conclusion was arrived at by Mr. Tracy following completion of a trip covering every Oakland agency in the United States. Mr. Tracy now is in Southern California.

RICHFIELD GAS IS RECORD SMASHER

'Terrible Tommy' Milton
Sets New Mark With
'Gas of Power'

When "Terrible" Tommy Milton ground out 200 laps at the Culver City track last Sunday with an average speed of 126.88 miles per hour, closely pressed by Harry Hartz, Peter de Paola and Bob McDonogh, it made the nineteenth consecutive A. A. A. National championship victory for "gasoline of power" within the last two years. This unbroken string of victories achieved at Indianapolis, Kansas City and on other tracks of importance gives Richfield the distinction of being the most consistent winner of any gasoline that ever competed on an American speedway.

C. M. Fuller, president of the Richfield Oil Co. was one of the first to reach Milton's side with congratulations at the end of the grueling 250 miles, and Milton's reply, "I'd never think of using anything but Richfield" was indicative of the esteem in which the "gasoline of power" is held by the racing fraternity. Peter de Paola, the daring young driver who dogged Milton's heels during a good many laps, and Bob McDonogh, winner of third place, were also enthusiastic in praise of Richfield, declaring its smooth, even power and dependability under any and every condition made it the ideal gasoline for speedway or boulevard.

Since Richfield first competed in a speedway event it is interesting to note how one world's record after another has "gone by the boards." Taking the famous Indianapolis track as an illustration, we find that in 1915 a speed record of 89.4 miles per hour was established which stood unmoled during the years of 1916, 1919 and 1920. In 1921, Tommy Milton, using Richfield gasoline tore to the goal with a new record of 89.62 miles per hour, while Jimmy Murphy, victor in 1922 boosted the mark to 94.48 miles per hour with Richfield in his gasoline tank. In 1923 Milton again using the "gasoline of power" this time in the new 122 inch motor established another world's record of 91.54 miles per hour and 1924 found Joe Boyer driving a winning race at the speed of 98.24 miles per hour for still another record!

What the pace will be at Indianapolis this year is something no one can even guess. With the wholesale smashing of records that has taken place at Culver City in the two races thus far held on the track, it is almost a certainty that one of these self-same pilots will set a new record for the big 500 mile International event.

One of the Most Important Letters In Automobile History

PACKARD MOTOR CAR COMPANY

DETROIT, MICHIGAN

AM-L

January 5, 1925.

TO STOCKHOLDERS OF THE
PACKARD MOTOR CAR COMPANY:

Newspapers are carrying the story of a radical reduction which the Company has announced in the prices of all enclosed models of the Packard Six car.

The prices of the Eight models are not reduced.

The announced reductions vary from $640 for the Six coupe to $840 for the seven-passenger Six sedan.

Following are the new prices at Detroit:

5-pass. Sedan.....	$2585	7-pass. Sedan Limousine.....	$2885
7-pass. Sedan.....	2785	4-pass. Coupe.....	2585
5-pass. Sedan Limousine.....	2785	5-pass. Coupe.....	2685

This price revision makes the Packard Six in its various models easily the outstanding automobile value of the year. This is particularly true because at the new prices the cars are exactly as they were; there is no change in design, material or workmanship.

While price reductions are nothing new to the automobile industry, no company building a high-grade car and appealing to an exacting clientele has ever before made so far-reaching a price revision in its product.

As a stockholder in the Company you will naturally ask why this drastic move, and can the Company market its high-grade cars profitably at so low a price?

The answer is—we are prepared to do it.

The Six has been on the market four years, during which it has been so far refined and perfected that we believe the appearance and fundamentals of the car will be unchanged for a considerable time; that is to say, the car has been standardized. And while doubtless we shall from time to time make minor and detail improvements, we do not anticipate any necessity for substantial structural changes for a long time to come. We are, therefore, in ideal position to devote our attention and facilities to turning this perfected car out in quantities at the lowest price consistent with Packard quality. And the price revisions are a step in our program to this end.

Production will be conservatively expanded to take care of the increased sales.

The Company has never been stronger financially, or better prepared, in organization and facilities, for a constructive move such as this.

We enclose copy of our report for the last quarter ending November 30th last. We show net earnings of $1,872,753—one of the best quarters in the history of the Company.

We have no unsold stock of goods on hand and our inventories were never in better condition.

Very cordially,

Alvan Macauley
President
